EDITORIAL

When the early settlers first established themselves in Australia, their battle against the privations formed a ruggedness which has stayed with the Australians. This strong outdoor image accompanying them has been exemplified in sporting prowess. As the country has matured, so have other more docile activities crept into everyday life; but the rugged image is still preferred in most circles and although the individual is not ridiculed for pursuing a less aggressive pastime, much ground needs to be covered before sport and culture meet on equal levels.

Australians have always prided themselves on their 'fair go' attitude. However, even though a break-through has been achieved, cultural pursuits still run a bad second in most school programmes. Restrictions usually in the form of compulsory sport participation, in many circumstances prevent further advances or regular study of an art. Sport still holds the key position on Saturday morning and sport gets a financial advantage over culture not only in the school environment but in the whole circle of Australian society. In my opinion, sport and culture need to be more balanced for a total benefit to be gained from School life.

Due to the advances in science and technology, man has been able to increase his lifespan. Now after the age of retirement, he needs some pastime to keep his mind active. By the time he is seventy years old, he won't be looking forward to a quick game of football, or any other games for that matter. To hold his interest he could pursue an activity, cultural or otherwise, he studied while at school. His only problem is to develop that interest before he is launched into his working life.

To some extent the school programme is now designed to encourage those whose talents do not lie in the playing field to spend their time more profitably developing a subject area of a different nature. Opportunities exist for the involvement in debating, chess, music and art; the school boy is now offered wider horizons for enriching not only his leisure hours but also in broadening his understanding of issues affecting society as a whole.

This magazine, the Cygnets, is the result of many long hours of writing and photography, and is a major but specialised part of the cultural school life.

The involvement with musical groups and orchestras now, in some areas, replaces the traditional devotion to the sport's field on Saturday mornings. Awards for outstanding sporting achievement are very often matched by awards for outstanding cultural performances.

The School does not stand alone with this increasing support. Now that businessmen have realised the profit which accompanies overseas touring artists, new horizons have opened. Here, in Perth, a Concert Hall and Entertainment Centre have been built and now an ever increasing stream of artists of world renown find their way to Perth. A huge musical conference involving most countries in the world was staged here last year. Western Australia enjoyed some brilliant speakers in the Australia wide "Youth Speaks Out" competition. Culturally we equalled our achievement in sport — a milestone in the maturity our country is reaching.

It is said by some that a healthy body makes a healthy mind. To abolish sport completely would be as foolish as abolishing culture completely. Nevertheless, the right perspective must be realized in order that those who do not shine athletically can have the opportunity to follow an activity of their own choice and not feel an outcast for doing so. A sign of maturity is tolerance — for too long the non-sportsman has been tolerant of his regular sporting commitment, now is the time for maturity to be shown by those whose job it is to teach tolerance, now is the time for non-sporting activities to receive equal recognition and parallel honours.

Staff Changes

Mr. A. Bohdan, B.Sc., Dip.Ed., who taught Chemistry at Hale since 1971, has resigned to join the newly established Curriculum Development Centre of the Australian Ministry of Education in Canberra. He has been replaced by Mr. M.J.S. Jordan, B.Sc., a keen young hockey player and ex-geologist.

Mr. M.F. Loveland, B.Sc., B.A., B.Ed., who has been on the Hale staff since 1965, and has been Housemaster, Master-in-Charge of tennis and for the last two years, Master-in-Charge of the Bookshop, retires at the end of the year.

The Rev. R.E. Davis, LLB., Th.L., leaves at the end of the year for a well earned long service leave. He has been at the School since 1960 as Chaplain and since 1968 has been Housemaster of Brine House, the Junior School Boarding House. His contribution to Rugby has been excellent and he has been largely responsible for the 1st XV's success in the last two years. The School will miss his open-minded approach to religion.

Mr. A.B. Massey, T.C., Dip.App.Ling., retires as a Boarding Housemaster, at the end of the year, but will continue to teach. His replacement in the Boarding House as Wilson Housemaster, will be Mr. R.C. Truscott.

HEADMASTER'S REPORT

The School appreciates the honour of having as its guest tonight the Premier of the State, Sir Charles Court. It gives us the opportunity of thanking him for the very considerable assistance given to Independent Schools.

It is perhaps not fully appreciated that the aid of the State Government is considerably greater than that of Canberra. For all the trumpeting of the Schools Commission etc., the annual allowance received from Canberra is $61.00 for each primary student and $94.00 per secondary student. While that from the Government of Western Australia has been $85.00 and $156.00. This is a marked factor in enabling us to continue.

We receive also the very welcome interest concession from the State Government, whereby should we borrow to build, the interest up to 7½% on our loan is met. The Government of the State of Western Australia deserves our warmest thanks for this assistance.

Not only in material things are we helped. There are many ways in which, in Western Australia, it is made clear to us that the Minister fully appreciates that he is Minister for Education, and not merely Minister of the Education Department. The Department of Education itself, since the days of "Blue" Robertson and H.R. Dettman, has been most liberal in its relations with Independent Schools.

In other States a Department bureaucracy controls to a much greater extent the activities of Independent Schools and helps them far less. Here there is a co-operative and friendly attitude and a tolerance of diversity on which Hale at least has been able to capitalise.

As is well known, Hale has continued with its third year Junior Certificate Examination, a modification of the earlier Junior Certificate. Were we in New South Wales, or elsewhere in the East, this divergence would not have been possible. We would have had no freedom to do our own thing. We appreciate the attitude here, which accepts the validity of different philosophies of education, and which, when we say there is value in well conducted examinations, does not force us to follow everyone else. Your Government, Sir, and that of your predecessor, have been typically West Australian in its tolerance to let us have a go, and we are sure this tolerance and our initiative is in the best interest of a healthy State.

In the year that has just ended, and on which I am reporting, our Junior Certificate Examination has been in our own hands. The results will be published we hope before Christmas. We have received many enquiries from others schools, Government and non-Government, gradually coming to accept that a whole school attitude towards hard work as well as resultant high standards are helped by this quality control. And when we look overseas, country after country confirms our views, that well conducted examinations in schools, universities and elsewhere, remain the best means towards the essential end, of national survival and advancement.

It is all the more regrettable that the Leaving Certificate Examination, which once marked the end of secondary education is soon to be abolished completely. By 1977, every separate secondary school in the State can nominate its final year for a Leaving Certificate, based on little more than nothing. It seems essential then, that we at Hale, faced with this meaningless retrogression, organize ourselves to award a worthwhile Certificate, based on the Tertiary Admittance Examination. There are signs that other Independent Schools may move with us in this matter. Whether they follow or not, it seems necessary that we act in this way, to safeguard your son's future.

Along with all other schools concerned with educating the entire boy, Hale could wish it were richer — not necessarily in finance, but in educational offerings. Were finance no hindrance Hale would dearly love to see more music and drama, more Physical Education, more staff teaching more subjects, no matter how few took them and more activities of all kinds. One major activity that ended in the year under review was Cadets. Closed by the Commonwealth Government, this took a much valued dimension away from the School and will be sorely lost. Its abolition, makes even more important the educational value of our Pilbara outpost. Here our fourth year boys spend two weeks in groups of twelve, being subjected to a new environment and to a whole range of new and beneficial experiences.

As Wittenoom (and Cadets) have shown, education outside the classroom can be extremely valuable. It is difficult to arrange, (and here the School indicated its indebtedness to Mr. Taylor, who did great work with the Cadet Corps, to Mr. Hoar, the Deputy Headmaster, who played a great part last year in the organizing of Wittenoom, and to Mr. Gray, who was resident master there) but it is always worthwhile.

I hope we can make further efforts in this line, with other areas being investigated for adventure training, and more away-from-school learning being encouraged.

Staff: The School has acknowledged the work of Mr. Hoar, Mr. Taylor, Mr. Gray. There are various staff changes to record. Parents already will be aware that Mr. M.F. Loveland retires this year. Many knew him as Housemaster of Stirling House, as master-in-charge of the Bookroom, as a very, very successful tennis master. We all have appreciated his contribution to the School, and we wish him well on his retirement.

The Rev. R.E. Davis will be absent next year in Europe, on long service leave. His temporary replacement as Chaplain for 1976, the Rev. E. Witham, comes to us with the Archbishop's blessing, and we hope he will find it an interesting sojourn. Mr. W. Edgar will take over as the Junior boys' Housemaster of Brine House, where he is fortunate to have the continuing service of Mrs. Cook.

The much respected senior Boarding Housemaster, Mr. B.M. Massey, is leaving Wilson House this year, after several decades of House service. Mr. Richard Truscott takes his place. Both Mr. and Mrs. Massey have won a host of friends from the hundreds of boys who have passed through Wilson House and their work is most appreciated. They will be enjoying a well earned holiday in first term, on long service leave.

We have acquired a new staff member this year in Mr. M. Jordan, a Science graduate of the University of Tasmania, who replaced Mr. Bohdan. Mr. Geoffrey Gray, a young Old Boy who holds a degree in Accountancy, and who received our offer of employment as the ketch was setting off to Timor, will join us, and Mr. Somers Vine moves up from the Junior School to teach in the Senior School.

An interesting visitor, prompted by our Lt. Governor Commodore Ramsay and the England-Australia Association, will be the attachment to the staff of the School for two terms of a young Englishman, Mr. Laskey, a former House Captain of Harrow. He is going up to Cambridge in September and comes to us as part of an exchange system, of school leavers, between the two countries organized by Project Trust. We call it 'Rent A Pom' while in the United Kingdom it is known as 'Ave an Aussie'.

One of the best things in the world is to be a boy. It requires no experience but needs quite a lot of practice to be a good one. To anyone involved in education in a School, it is necessary to remember what can without blemish be forgotten in a university, or ignored, that his task primarily is with the pupil and not the subject. The boy, now as always, as when Juvenal described your son in the 3rd century A.D. "A devilment and a joy". Or as another Roman, Horace said "Innumeras Curas Secum Adferunt Liberis" (Children bring with them innumerable cares).

Of course they do, to Headmasters as much as to parents. And education today is tougher because of the changes that have seriously weakened the family as an institution and diminished its educational role. All round the Western world the increases in divorces and broken homes, in both parents going out to work, in the inability of the father to play with his children, in the presence in the home uninvited of the trash (if also occasionally the beauty) of the world, the mindless pop culture pushed over the air waves by cynical and skilful sellers, all this has weakened the home and the family as a controlling and educative element, and isolated the School. The Church of course is little stronger if at all, than it was in the days of the Romans, and its educational role too has diminished markedly these last one hundred years.

It is a paradox that with this weakening of the family, the youth of today is often excessively cosseted and protected. Experiences are the basis of education, yet many of the experiences that once were common and necessary to growth, hunger, cold, being lost or wet, thirsty or poor, are now denied the youth of our Schools. (that is unless he is a boarder of course). Wealth has sheltered these boys excessively and it presents yet another problem to education.

As Horace said, innumerable cares; but also there is a feeling of eternity in youth which makes amends for everything. There are the drugs and the liquor, the devilment of wild colts who may make the best horses. There are always the problems of youth, manifested so obviously now, given such publicity that were one old, one could be excused if one despaired. But youth is not a time of life, it is a state of mind and to those who can still share that state of mind, optimism not pessimism, courage not weakness, belief not cynicism, enthusiasm not despair, are the characteristics, and one can still hope that in the compassion and energy and enterprise of our educated youth we have our greatest chance.

We share with our distinguished guest a belief in the fundamental value of diversity and competition, in education as elsewhere. For a long time any moves towards diversity received very little encouragement. Western Australia was a very isolated community. Before the second world war, our isolation was extreme and it is still a marked feature of our life. It had the effect of making us reluctant to split ranks, or try anything new. But now in education as elsewhere the community is beginning to accept more and more that schools and universities and colleges of advanced education can be different and yet still be worthwhile. So we are encouraged to continue with our own individual and distinctive stand.

And surely, our isolation here in Western Australia, once so very real and still a great feature, may have bad features, but it is also in many ways a benefit. When you read of the roots of violence in modern society elsewhere, of the intense overcrowding in cities, the loss of real personal freedom of choice, the incessant noise, the lack of environmental beauty, the famines and riots and political terrors of other countries, and the steps being taken to escape these horrors, these factors, thanks to our isolation, remain largely alien to our own quality of life. Long may this be so.

We may live in a land of apathy and of unfulfilled hopes, but it is a land of hope; and it may be that this isolation will permit us and our educated children and grand children to fashion here in the fullness of time something as unique as the country in which we live. A land, I must admit (and people) that pulled me back from thousands of miles away, a slow moving, immense land of antiquity, where its city people can still regard rain as "good for the farmer", where to come back to education, despite what I have said about family break-ups, a boy still regards as the worst punishment of all, having the Head contact his mother.

We are very lucky in many ways in Western Australia, now approaching its 150th anniversary when at functions and occasions already initiated by our distinguished visitor and his Government, both past and future will be examined.

We can claim to have made, as descendants of the 1858 foundation of the Collegiate School of Bishop Hale, some contribution to the past and present. I am sure that as an Independent School, we can continue to play a part in the future.

For this we seek your continued support.

DOCTOR ARNOLD BUNTINE

The death of Dr. Arnold Buntine, in Melbourne, came as sad news to the boys and masters of Hale School. He was one of the great headmasters of Hale.

Dr. Buntine came to Hale in 1931 from Camberwell Grammar School in Victoria, where he had been headmaster. Dr. Buntine eventually left Hale in 1945 to accept the post of headmaster of Geelong College, also in Victoria.

During the war years, Dr. Buntine served with distinction in the army and by the end of the war had risen to the rank of Lieutenant-Colonel.

Hale, in Dr. Buntine's time, was a relatively small school, but it was a matter of pride with him that he knew every boy in the school. He will be remembered for his faith in the school and for the many improvements he made in it.

The school prospered under his guidance and its tone was very high.

The staff found Dr. Buntine at all times courteous and helpful and this, more than anything else, led to harmony and great co-operation in the common room.

The school at Wembley Downs will forever remain a memorial to Dr. Buntine. This scheme was dearest to his heart and it was during his headmastership that the land on which the school now stands was acquired. A day boy house has been named after him.

Dr. Buntine was a distinguished scholar with a good sporting record, and he was a firm but fair disciplinarian. Schoolmastering was his life, and indeed, after he had retired from Geelong College he found inactivity not to his taste and accepted a teaching post in Sydney.

A headmaster's influence is considerable and it can be said with confidence that generations of schoolboys will remember the debt they owe to this man. He was named after Dr. Arnold of Rugby. This was a challenge that he no doubt saw. How he accepted this challenge is appreciated by those who knew him at work. The pastoral concern on the part of the staff and the individual responsibility on the part of the students at Hale are memorials more fitting to him than this poor tribute or letters in stone.

The school expresses its deepest sympathy to Mrs. Buntine and to Robert and John.

VERNON MURPHY

M.A., (Oxon).

VERNON MURPHY

A few fortunate people now at Hale School knew Vernon Murphy personally. We all knew of him and there was a great sense of loss at the School when we heard of his death.

He was a gifted scholar and sportsman and was dux of Scotch College, Claremont in 1917. He then went to the University of Western Australia, where he gained his B.A. in 1921. That year he was awarded a Rhodes Scholarship and four years later had an M.A. conferred upon him. Although he was awarded another scholarship in England, he returned to Australia and became a master at Newington College, Sydney, and later at St. Peter's College, Adelaide. He then became Headmaster of Trinity College, and later Hutchins School, Hobart.

At the end of 1945, with Dr. Buntine's resignation, he became headmaster of Hale School. He came to the School just after the war and bound the School into a close knit unit.

He had several principles to which he carefully adhered; he was a man who employed masters to do their job and was a very open man, never saying anything to offend.

Being an excellent sportsman, he believed the game being played fairly was most important.

He was an instrument in the moving of the School to Wembley Downs and he assisted in many ways in preparing the School for the shift.

After leaving Hale School he went to Papua New Guinea and later received a senior appointment to his old School, Scotch College, Claremont.

Everyone at Hale, particularly the masters and boys who knew him, realised that they had lost a great man. He was truly a gentleman in the best sense of the word.

Captain of School Report

Tonight marks the end of the 1975 School year. To many boys leaving it means the end of a particular lifestyle. A lifestyle that has had the ups and downs, good and bad points. Boys will look back on their days at Hale with mixed feelings, however I am sure they will all regard time spent at Hale as an experience well worth it. They will recall the good times, the friends made, and their achievements in certain fields of school life. In recalling these experiences of Hale School life they will be able to appreciate the well known adage "what you put into School is what you get out of it." To achieve results, a steady and continuous effort must be applied. This dedication can be applied in sport, academic activities and the cultural side of School life.

Any results obtained by a boy at Hale in either the sporting, academic or cultural activities of the School are equal in magnitude to the effort applied by this boy. This is all too obvious in the class, the boy who works the hardest gains the best exam results for his particular standard, on the sporting field the boy who trains the hardest usually proves to be the best competitor under pressure.

Competition for good exam results and good sporting achievements is very strong at a School like Hale. However this competition is not only found at Hale but our whole way of life is made up of competition for jobs, wives, sporting teams and a host of others. This basic training of learning to dedicate and apply oneself to a particular activity and complete it to one's best ability is essential for providing a healthy society of the future.

It is a pity to note that at a School like Hale it is mainly the senior members of the School that understand the full meaning of "what you put into School is what you get out of it", and by this stage it is too late. Many boys coming to Hale perform poorly until fourth or fifth year and then they begin to realize that to get anywhere, more effort is needed, to pass harder exams, find places in the top sporting teams and even to make the grade as a prefect, and you must remember you can not build a house on weak foundations. I feel that it is up to the parents of the younger boys to urge them on and encourage them to strive for goals in School life for I feel that first year to third year is as important as fourth and fifth year.

I have mentioned sport a lot, this is because sport at Hale is a very important part of School life. The results achieved by Hale this year indicate the support given to sport by both the masters and the boys.

The 1975 sporting season started off with a tremendous win by the swimming team for the tenth year in a row. Mr. Poake and other swimming coaches are to be congratulated on their dedication and for the results they have achieved with the swimmers. These coaches have also provided a lot of depth in this team and as a result we have a lot of good up-and-coming swimmers. This should make Hale a strong cup contender again next year.

The 1st XI, a potential Darlot Cup winning team, were unlucky to be beaten by Trinity, and as a result of this the team finished a creditable second. Mr. Gidney did a fine job with this team. Hale, with its marvellous pitches, cricket nets, enthusiastic coaches, and young hopefuls, looks set for a bright cricketing future.

The Head of the River this year spelled disaster for the Hale 1st VIII crew, who were fortunate to be coached by Olympic oarsman Peter Shakespeare, and Mr. Cardell-Oliver. A too heavy crew, for some of the roughest Head of the River conditions ever experienced, and the inside lane, resulted in the 1st VIII sinking after completing only 500 metres.

The new look Hale crews, ably supervised by Mr. Truscott and Mr. Foss, performed creditably in the Head of the River. We are proud of the 2nd VIII, who were our only winners on the day. This provides hope for the future.

Tennis, the 1st IV consisting of three third years and one fourth year, could only manage fifth position this year. However, Mr. Edgar and Mr. Bonner were able to coach the same team to victory in the State-wide Mursell Shield. Also two Hale teams made it to the finals of the State-wide Herbert Edward's Shield for Under fifteen.

Hale lack the brilliance it possessed a few years ago; however, by proving themselves in the Junior competitions Hale is placing itself in good stead for the years to come.

Hale entered second term sport with the same spirit shown during first term.

The Hockey players had a disappointing season and finished seventh. Mr. Biddle and other coaches tried hard to produce results.

The 1975 Football season started with a successful trip to Adelaide by the 1st XVIII. Hale, after losing the first two games, combined well as a team and fought back to be runners-up in the Alcock Cup competition. Mr. Macmillan, as coach, nearly drove himself into the ground trying to spur the 1st XVIII on to greater things. The team proved that his efforts were not wasted.

The first year "A's" went through the season undefeated; this gives hope for the years to come.

Rugby at Hale, under the guidance of the Rev. Davis, has had a great deal of success over the past few years. This success goes right through the School from the under 12's competition to the 1st XV. 1975 was a great season with the 1st XV winning the Brother Redmond Cup for the second year in succession. Seven boys were selected from this year's 1st XV to represent their State; this typified the standard of Rugby at Hale.

Athletics is a very demanding sport, both physically and mentally, and I feel we can pay tribute to the athletes for the effort they applied and the guts they showed. Athletics also involves a large number of coaches, who give up a lot of their time to coach the athletes, and their contributions are greatly appreciated. The under 14's proved to be the most successful age group on the day, winning a large number of events.

Recently there has been a lot of controversy over the abolition of School Cadets. This corps was made up and run by the boys and masters of the School. The cadet unit was run on a strict code of discipline, the boys were taught and trained in nearly every facet of army life, from cleaning their boots to firing rifles, from marching in step to learning to cook meals in the bush. The cadet unit formed an essential part of Hale School life; boys were taught to give and accept orders and were also taught the basics of leadership. A background of camping and bush cooking is essential to most Hale boys going to Wittenoom, and Hale is hoping to start up some new activities to take the place of cadets.

Wittenoom — the Hale fourth years once again experienced the splendours of the second term Wittenoom trip. Mr. Truscott, after being Hale's man in the north for two years, handed the job of resident master over to Mr. Gray this year. Mr. Gray had one of last year's old boys, Gary Fletcher, as his offside.

Wittenoom is more than a glorious two week holiday in the sun and gorges of Wittenoom. It allows boys to study such subjects as geography, geology and biology in depth in the field, it creates a mixing of day boys and boarders that continues after arriving back at school, and Wittenoom creates a better understanding between masters and boys, which adds greatly to School spirit.

I, along with many others, feel that Wittenoom is the best extra-curricula activity undertaken by any public school in Western Australia and I hope it continues for the years to come.

This year Hale entered two teams in an inter-school debating competition. Although quite unorthodox, the debates proved to be great entertainment and were enjoyed by all. 1975 saw the re-introduction of the inter-house debating. This has created general debating interest within the School and should help in improving the standard of Hale's debating.

Chess — compared to last year, chess at Hale was poorly supported this year. Last year Hale entered a record number of teams in the State competitions, however this year only three teams were entered. The three teams performed creditably and they all finished third.

On 6th July many Hale boys actively participated in the annual Salvation Army Red Shield Door-Knock Appeal. These boys together raised in the vicinity of $800 and they are to be thanked for their effort.

Many activities that involve Hale boys go unnoticed by many people; this is the case of the water polo players. Seven of this year's fifth years and an old boy from last year, made up the Hale water polo team that won both the 17 and under and under 18 State Championships this year. Also six members of this team were part of the State under 18 team that won the National titles from New South Wales. These teams were ably coached by Australia's 1976 Olympic water-polo coach, Mr. Tom Hoad. These boys are to be congratulated for their performances on the National level.

Mr. Harvey, Hale's music master, is to be congratulated on his organization of the Hale School band. Previous to this year the boys only heard the band about once a term; however this year they have been part of our assemblies regularly. They proved themselves on Old Boys' Day in front of many impressed Old Boys.

In closing I would like to wish all those boys leaving and those staying on at School, the best of luck for the future. I hope that both the boys leaving and those staying on will have continued pride in Hale School. For those leaving you will be remembered by many as an Old Boys of Hale School. This I am sure is something of which we can be proud. Those remaining at Hale, and even those here tonight who will be going to Hale in the near future, must strive and continue to give Hale School their full support, for the achievements of Hale as a School are really the achievements of the boys that make up this School.

I would like to thank the prefects for the great support they have given the School this year. I would also like to thank all the masters and staff of Hale that have made my five years at Hale most memorable.

Thank you.

CHAPEL

Little can be added to what has been written in previous Cygnets about the Chapel and its worship.

The services followed the same pattern as last year with the only significant change being a marked improvement in the Chapel Choir due to the work of Mrs. Gladstones in establishing a fine standard of singing into the Junior School.

The active participation of the congregation in our services, which have become very conservative by present day standards in the Church, and the simple dignity of what is done in the Chapel, have been commented on most favourably by many of our visiting preachers.

The guest preachers this year were Canons A. Pierce and W. Riley and the Reverend E. Doncaster, A.W. Bateman, R. Appleby, T. Witham, B. Griffiths, W. Patterson, R. Borthwick and R. Pearce and Mr. Bill Couche.

JUNIOR SCHOOL

There have been several staff changes this year. Mr. D. Orr has left to further his experience in England and his place has been taken by Mr. B. Heibner, who has been proved to be a most valuable asset to the School. Increased numbers have necessitated the splitting of Grade 6 into two classes and the second class has been taken by Mr. A. Somers Vine, who arrived from Rhodesia at the beginning of the year. During first term we were fortunate enough to have Miss G. Hearle as a student teacher. Miss Pyres and Mr. Saulsman, both students at Graylands Teachers' College, spent second term with us. They spent some time in each grade and we believe that the exchange of ideas and techniques is beneficial to both students and teachers. In addition, eight students from Churchlands Teachers' College spent two weeks at the School.

During the year the boys have been on a number of visits that have been of educational value to them. Grades 3, 5, 6 and 7 visited the U.S.S. Coral Sea, an American Aircraft Carrier returning from service off the coast of Vietnam. Unfortunately, due to rough seas, the boys could not board the vessel, but they enjoyed the ferry trip as the party was accompanied by an American Naval Officer who told them all about the ship.

Grade 7 boys visited Mr. Fleay's farm at York during October for several days study of farming procedures. We thank Mr. Fleay for the opportunity he has given to the boys of seeing how a farm is run. Places of historical interest in the area were also visited.

As part of the social studies course, Grade 6 paid a visit to Parliament House during April. The boys were taken around by Mr. J. Clarko, M.L.A., who spent much time explaining how we are governed.

Grades 5 and 4 both visited Perth airport where they were shown over the workings of Ansett Airlines. During first term they visited Perry Lakes for a Science study of the water birds that are to be found in the area. Notes, diagrams and sketches of the birds were completed by the boys. In addition Grade 5 has also visited Fremantle Museum and Woodbridge House.

Grade 3 boys have visited Ansett Airlines, Browne's Dairy and Clover Meats during the year.

During the first term holidays a number of boys, accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Mill and Mr. Somers Vine, undertook an educational excursion to Melbourne, Canberra and the Snowy Mountains. The group travelled by air to Melbourne and then by coach to Adaminaby. Day trips were then made to surrounding areas of interest such as Canberra, Cooma, Lake Eucumbene, Thredbo, etc.

Wednesday afternoon in the Junior School is devoted to craft activities and music. Grades 4 and 7 participate in these activities. This year the Grade 7 boys have been split into three groups and each group has had a term of Metalwork, Woodwork and Pottery. This gives each boy the opportunity to experience each craft. Mr. Haskett has been responsible for the metalwork, which is conducted in the Senior School Workshop. The boys are given basic instruction in the use and care of tools, and various models have been made, using a variety of techniques. The same applies to the woodwork section that has been run by Mr. Holmes. The pottery section is conducted by Mrs. Freedman and we thank her for the time that she has devoted to the Junior School. Other Wednesday afternoon activities include gymnastics, chess, nature study, puppetry and kite making. Some of the Grade 7 boys have also been operating a stamp and coin Collectors' Club and are to be congratulated on their initiative in this respect.

The Junior School Band is considerably smaller in number than it was at the end of 1974, but it is never-the-less producing a better sound. At the end of first term we were asked to play at the Speech and Hearing Centre in Wembley. It was not our finest hour, but must surely have been our loudest! Most members of the audience were partially or completely deaf which may have saved them from an ear-splitting rendition of "The Lonely Bull". The children touched the instruments while they were being played which enabled them to feel the vibrations. Midway through term two the band was asked to play at the Alfred Carson Hospital. A most successful afternoon's music was enjoyed by all concerned. This resulted in the band being asked to play at the Hospital's annual fete during late November. A most enjoyable term's music has been had by all and we look forward to a larger and louder band next year.

Grades 1 to 6 have a singing period each week. This year we have changed the emphasis from traditional songs to modern popular and folk songs. We have learnt songs from shows like "Oliver", "Sound of Music", "Man of La Mancha" and "Godspell", mixed in negro spirituals and favourites from Peter, Paul and Mary and the Seekers. The Junior School Choir also ventured into modern music and sang with gusto, if not perfection, Bridge Over Troubled Waters and Rhythm of Life for Open Day. It has been very pleasing that so many day boys are singing in the chapel for Sunday night services and at weddings. This has traditionally been done by boarders from Brine House. This year we have had a mixture of day boys and boarders and the singing has been of a very high standard.

July 7th was the Junior School Open Day. This gave parents the opportunity to see how the School operates and a large number of parents visited the classrooms, spoke to teachers, and looked at work produced by the boys. An Art display was organized by Mr. Sweet. There was a recitation of poetry by the Grade 5 boys as well as musical performances by the band and choir. Some of the Grade 7 boys performed a short play entitled "A Modern Cinderella".

The tuckshop continues to run smoothly and we thank all the mothers who have assisted in this field during the year. We also thank Mr. Atkins who provides the bags of clay for pottery, as well as Mr. O'Keefe who provides paper and cardboard off-cuts that are used both in Art Department and the classroom.

BRINE HOUSE

It was an eventful year in Brine House.

Mr. Jeremy Birman, our assistant Housemaster for two years, left at the end of 1974 and Mr. Somers Vine, master on the staff of the Junior School, took his place.

Mr. Somers Vine left at the end of second term and Mr. Richard Truscott kindly moved in to help until the end of the year.

Our Housemaster, the Reverend Russell Davis, resigned and Mr. W. Edgar was appointed as Housemaster for 1976.

The number of boys in the House rose to twenty-eight, the largest number for many years, and for the first time we had a boy in Grade 2.

A number of parents used Brine House as a temporary home for their boys while they went away on holiday and it is to the credit of the permanent boarders that all the short-term residents were made to feel at home.

This year we fielded, for the first time, an under 10 Mini-Rugby side and two under 12 teams — made possible by the enthusiasm of some day boys. All teams performed well and really enjoyed their games. Had it not been for long week-ends and school holidays we could have been in two grand finals.

Mr. and Mrs. Cook again showed their genuine interest in the boys by their thoughtful and conscientious work. They really make Brine House the happy home it is.

WITTENOOM

The build-up to Wittenoom began during first term with the usual round of fourth year meetings and briefings with interest running at its expected high level. Also during this time, Hale took delivery of a new four wheel drive vehicle obtained to replace the previous vehicle which had seen considerable service through the first five years of Hale-Wittenoom, the consistent functioning of which, however, had for some time been in doubt.

The vehicle was driven to Wittenoom by Mr. Hoar and his wife at the beginning of the May holidays and they were joined some days later by the remainder of the advance party together with this year's assistant resident master, Gary Fletcher and myself. This solid band of workers consisted of Mr. Trustscott, Chris Ayers, John Birman, Rhu Laurenson, Derek Reid and John Tuckey and they set to work around the house to make the place shipshape for group I. The advance party were then transported to the bush camp site and left there with all the camping gear and the job of settling it up. I would like to thank this group sincerely for the start they gave Wittenoom and I hope they enjoyed their stay.

Group I arrived towards the end of the holidays in the tender care of well-known Wittenoom personality and cassette player, Mr. A.J. Macmillan. Accompanying the group for a short visit to Wittenoom was the Senior Master, Mr. Altorfer, who stayed in Wittenoom for a few days and joined the group on several excursions (including the scarp climb). His interests and support of Hale-Wittenoom have been much appreciated and I trust he enjoyed his visit. The group were immediately very involved and enthusiastic in Wittenoom activities and things fortunately ran smoothly. The challenge of the town pool leap was faced and in due course overcome by all members of the group including the group master who, I still sincerely believe, lost his balance and jumped accidentally. The group then spent the traditional week in the bush the highlight of which for many was the swim through the beautiful "warm" pools of Red Gorge. If you have any doubts about this statement check with Nick Kallis.

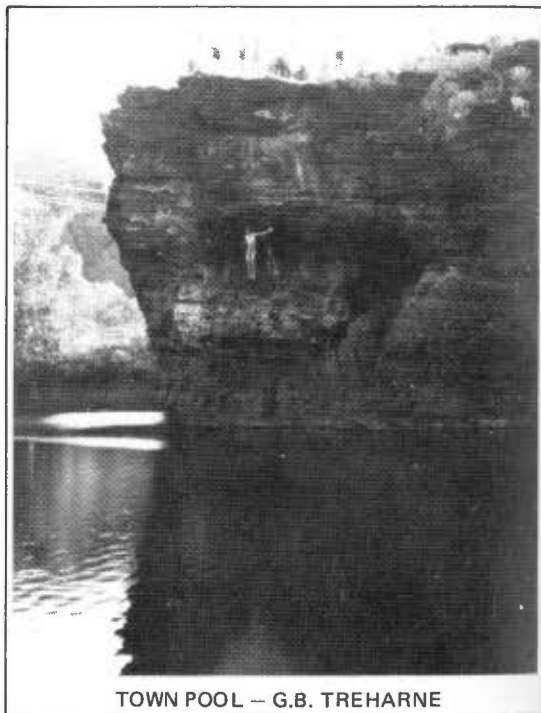

Group 2 brought a welcome return to Wittenoom of Mr. I.F. Biddle as group master. During their stay, they participated in the annual Henley-on-Joffre Regatta held in Wittenoom Gorge by the people of the town. The group also explored the scenic Hamersley Gorge during the week in the bush.

Another feature of the bush camp for this group was what Mr. Biddle described as an invasion of large rats, possibly man-eating. They were later discovered to be only a family of field mice, who, for much of the remainder of the term, provided a challenge to many aspiring mouse catchers.

The specialist geology group with Mr. Sonntag were next to arrive on the scene. They naturally concentrated on the geology of the area and visited several places of interest during the bush week. These included a trip to Marandoo, site of the proposed iron-ore development to be established by Hanwright and Texas Gulf. The group also climbed the nearby Mt. Bruce later in the day, the view from the top of which was generally considered to be worth the somewhat arduous ascent. This also saw the beginning of the "Gary Fletcher Slide" which was to become a most popular, although not necessarily painless, means of descending the first 500ft. or so from the top. Further trips were made to Nammuldi (the field camp of Hamersley Exploration where we were treated to lobster mornay for lunch) and to Nunyerri, an abandoned white asbestos mine in the Chichester Rangers.

Mr. L.J. Brohman, a Wittenoom rookie but straight from the Canadian Rockies, led Group 4. During their stay, the group played a most interesting cricket match against Hamersley Exploration. The game was played on a matting wicket at the Wittenoom Cricket Club Ground inside the local race-track. The wide variety of prickly bushes dotted about the ground made the field difficult to penetrate to the fence although this drawback was offset by the painful problems posed by the prickles to the fieldsmen. Hale failed to adapt sufficiently to the local conditions and Hamersley ended up winning a most enjoyable and particularly humorous game, another feature of which were the bullet-like returns to the wicket from Mr. Brohman at deep left field. We were then entertained at a magnificent barbecue at the Hamersley Exploration base camp in Wittenoom and are extremely grateful for their hospitality.

Artists of varying reputation comprised group 5. This was the first time that a specialist art group had gone to Wittenoom and, under the direction of the art master, Mr. A.J.C. Foss, they made sketches of certain places, took an amazing number of photographs and excavated large sections of Eastern Gorge looking for clay and ore. A feature of their trip to Mulga Downs was a visit to watch the shearing in action at Cowra, the journey there resembling scenes from Hatari. News of the temperature of Red Gorge must have somehow leaked out at Wembley Downs as Mr. Foss turned out for the Red Gorge swim in a wet suit. (Powder)!

Mr. L.V. Shields and the Biologists were next to arrive. They spent only a few days in the town house prior to moving to Millstream. On their way back to Wittenoom after visiting Dales Gorge, they conducted a daring raid on group 5 at the bush camp which turned out to be a bit of a flop as the latter were all in their tents resting and would not have known if an army had arrived. The raid was followed, however, by the mad bridge championship of the world which has been declared a "no contest" as the resident master came last. Millstream again proved of tremendous biological value and much good work was accomplished there. It is a magnificent place and Hale-Wittenoom is certainly dead against the proposal to dam the Fortescue River near Millstream and so place the area around Millstream homestead in jeopardy.

During the 6's stay, we had the pleasure of a semi-official visit from the Deputy-Headmaster, Mr. T.D. Hoar, a Wittenoom fanatic, who spent the mid-term long weekend with us seeing the boys in action.

Group 7 arrived in due course, bringing with them Mr. T.V. Greenwell as group master and some fine weather at last. Some of the features of their stay were Mr. Greenwell's basketball, some of the finest performances ever seen on the Mt. Bruce slide, "the sun never shines on Red Gorge" and a person in charge of the food tent called "Dirty Bertie".

Mr. J. Hockenhull with Group 8 came next.

MILLSTREAM — I.M. WATSON

They distinguished themselves by winning at basketball, the first (and only) Hale group for 1975, although others went very close. They were the innocent victims of an MMA pilots' strike, which necessitated their staying in Wittenoom for an extra five days which didn't seem to worry them in the slightest. Rod Lowe's unfortunate accident also occurred during their stay. Everyone was naturally relieved to see him back at school, fit and well, in third term. The members of the group acted admirably during the crisis, each doing what had to be done as we would expect. The incident stands as a stern reminder to all who go to Wittenoom — one can not have too healthy a respect for the potential dangers involved in climbing in this sort of country.

The last group for 1975 featured as group master Mr. R.C. Truscott, the resident master for the previous two years. During their time in the town house, the group participated in the annual Wittenoom fun day held at the race course, an amusing afternoon held a few weeks prior to their race weekend and in which Hale boys seemed to win many events. After group 8 had left, we were fortunate enough to find time to take group 9 to Millstream for a couple of great days by the warm water. The group then spent a very careful week in the bush followed by a couple of extra days to break camp and tidy up the town house — and did a great job.

Most of the above events form a sample for the more light-hearted features of Wittenoom 1975. However, each group participated in work involving a lot of outdoor exercise (including a 14 mile compass march to Mulga Downs Station); examination of the geology of the area; attempts at an appreciation of the people, the economics and the history of Wittenoom and its surroundings; informative guided tours of mining establishments such as Mt. Tom Price and Hamersley Exploration base; and the compilation of a diary while at Wittenoom as a record of their activities.

During the term, Hale participated where possible in Wittenoom community activities. We assisted in the setting up, running and particularly the cleaning up of the Henley-on-Joffre event and also helped with the "fun day" later in the year. The art group made many fine posters which were used around the town advertising the local P. & C. cabaret and also silk screened the singlets for the Wittenoom basketball team.

All these things, however, are just part of the overall Wittenoom experience which is difficult to summarize briefly and accurately. More than anything, it is a subjective lesson in thinking more of one's fellow man, in being more tolerant of one's fellow man and adapting together to and making the most of a new situation (the bush camp). Other more tangible "benefits" and the enjoyment derived from Wittenoom stem from these things.

The term in Wittenoom was for me one of the most enjoyable I have spent while being at Hale.

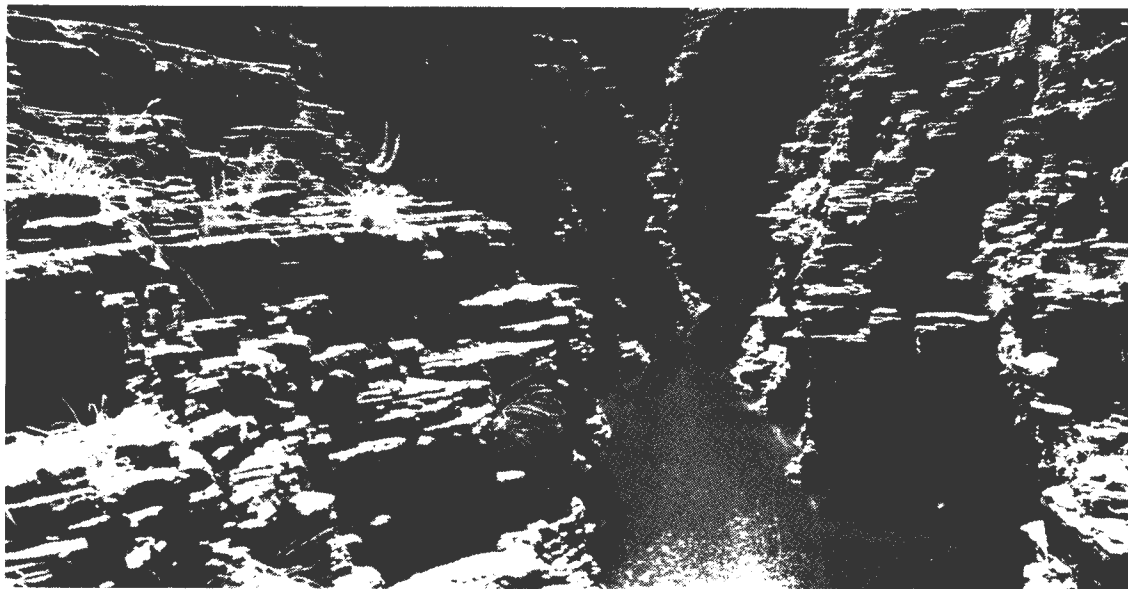

The interest associated with and the satisfaction one can derive from such a different educational endeavour is enormous. To this add a town of tremendously interesting, varied and helpful people and one has the ingredients for a very happy time.

Many people contribute to the smooth running of Hale-Wittenoom each year. First on my list of thanks certainly go to my assistant in Wittenoom, Gary Fletcher, for a superb effort throughout. It is said that with some people things only have to be said once. With Fletch, things never had to be said at all — they just happened with a minimum of fuss. The organization of Wittenoom from the Wembley Downs end was carried out largely by Mr. Truscott with his traditional efficiency and I am also most grateful to him for his advice and assistance on so many occasions.

The people of Wittenoom and the surrounding areas have always been most kind and helpful to us. Unfortunately, I can not mention them all but we especially thank Hancock and Wright; Hamersley Exploration; Hamersley Iron; E.G. and L. McGuire's Wittenoom Tourist Centre; Mr. and Mrs. Hooson of Mulga Downs Station; Mr. and Mrs. Kennedy of Millstream Station; The National Park Board and particularly to Mr. Michael Hoar of Wittenoom whose help throughout in so many ways was much appreciated.

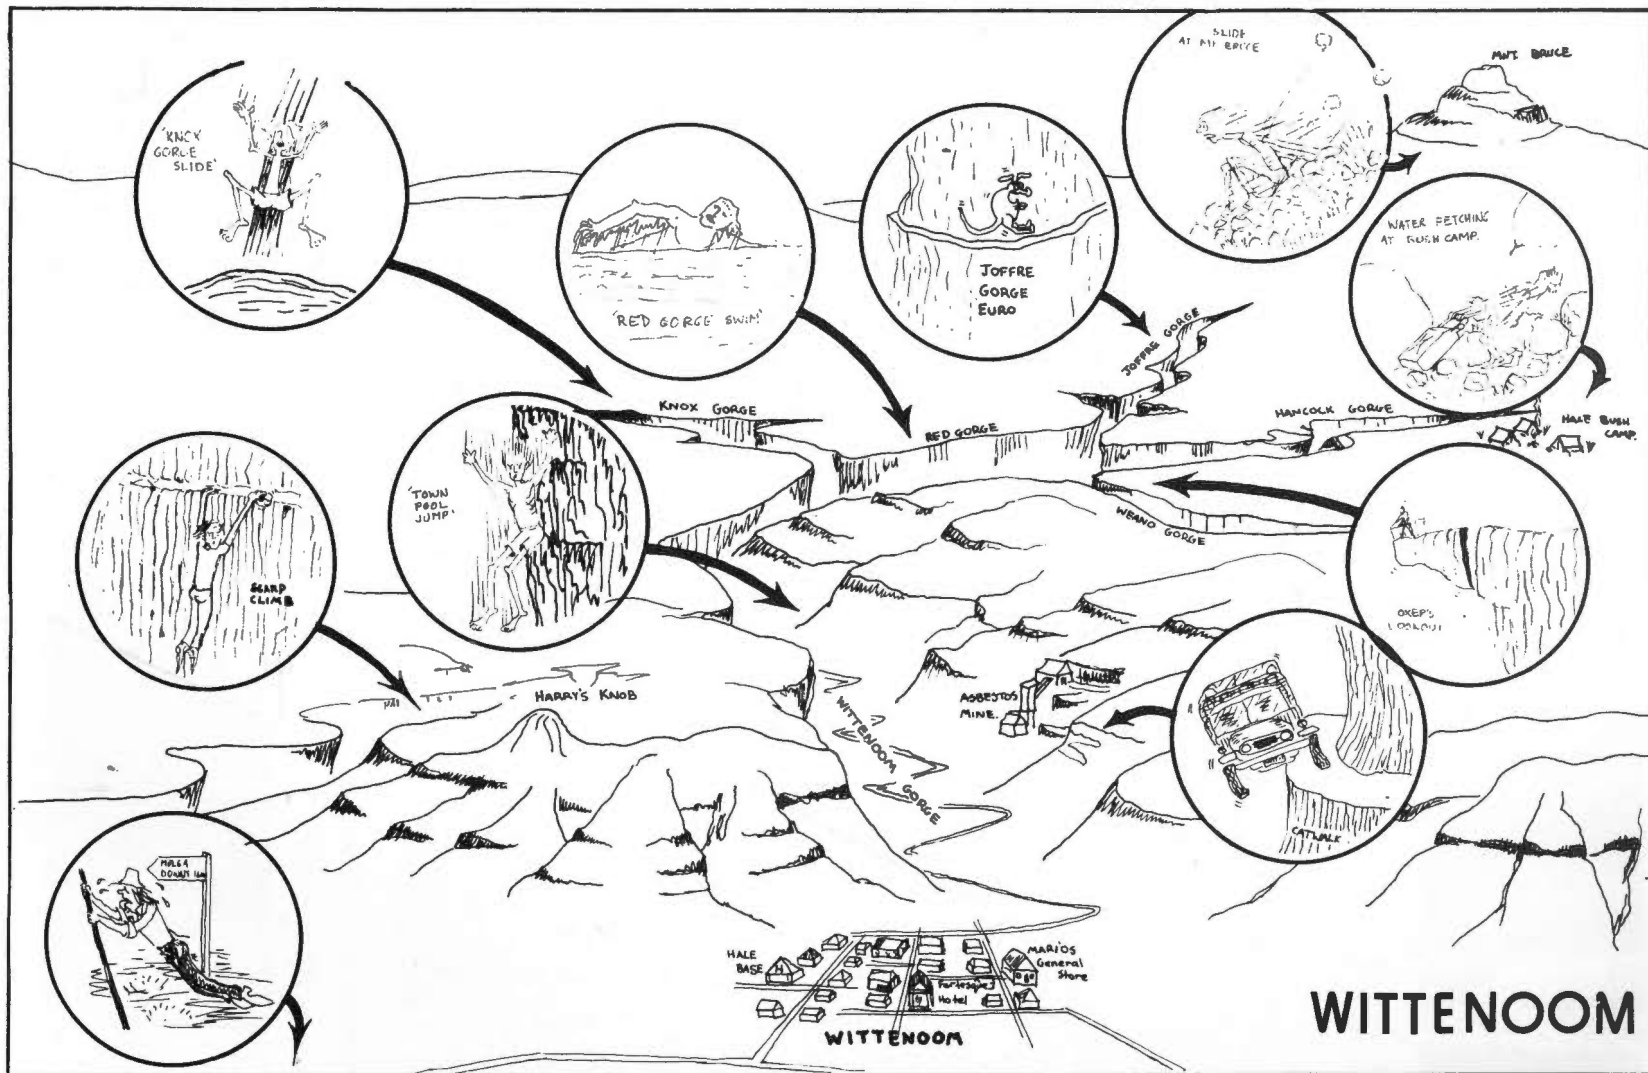

I would lastly like to pay tribute to this year's fourth year for participating in Wittenoom as they did. They were a credit to their school and themselves and I hope that they, both individually and as a group, go on to make the most of their fifth year.

BUNTINE

The Buntine Year opened typically with Mr. Macmillan welcoming old and new and giving the First Years a display of "emotion". We met for the first time in the newly carpeted double room of A3 and A4.

Before long, however, a cloud fell over the House when we were informed of the deaths of two former headmasters: Mr. Vernon Murphy and Dr. Arnold Buntine, after whom the House was named.

We did well to come third in most sports.

For the first time in the House's history we did not manage a first, but everyone in the House always tried their hardest and if not for a lack of depth we may have done better.

Birman's swimmers "gutsed" it to come second and Davo's rowers pulled hard to come third. Our tennis players came equal third as did the unsung heroes in the Sholl Cup games. The cricketers (with four men from the 1st XI) were a little disappointed when they too came third. The "third" story continued into the cross country where everyone gave his all, especially Les Galbraith who won the under fifteens. Our footballers had ability but seemed to lack the winning instinct and lost many games by narrow margins. The seniors came third and the juniors fifth. Hockey also came third and our position in the Cock House Cup at the end of term too was . . . third!

Spirit was high for the athletics as we made our last bid for the Cock House Cup. However, once again we lacked depth and did well to come fourth, relinquishing the last ever Cock House Cup to Stirling.

While understandably disappointed with our loss we can not be anything but happy with the effort by the members of the House. It was outside House sport that we shone: we had Allan, Barrymore, Cugini and Taylor in the 1st XI, Marsh in swimming, Birman in Water Polo and football, Lilburne and Taylor in rugby, and many others striving for places in teams both in and out of School. Michael Rose won the State Golden Gloves boxing Championship for his age-group and John Haddon went to the World Scout Jamboree in Norway. Andrew Taylor was runner-up in this year "Lions" Youth Speaks competition and was a member of the Buntine team in the new Inter-Wittenoon was the highlight of the year for the Fourth Years and the Buntine men salute Mr. Gray, Gary Fletcher and the various Group masters for making it all possible.

Charities took a different complexion this year.

Rather than the painful weekly extractions, a concentrated drive was held for one week. We collected $400 which was presented to the Cancer Crusade.

All in all it has been a good year and we wish to thank Mr. MacMillan for his enthusiasm and involvement. This enthusiasm always comes to the fore at the end of the year with the now traditional Buntine Poolside barbecue.

FAULKNER

1975 was a year of change for Faulkner House in two basic areas.

All in Faulkner became aware of Mr. Gidney, not so much in his role of exacting Housemaster, but as the instigator of co-operation and action as a team.

The accent was on relaxing rules for the House members and trying to put the emphasis on doing jobs for the good of the House and not because some House prefect tells you to do it.

The ruling class of the House, from Mr. Gidney through the assistant Housemasters to House prefects, had a genuine aversion to direct punishment, making for a more pleasant relationship between masters and boys.

Any Faulkner man will say it was "slacker" this year, but whether that man enjoyed his year depends on the effort and time he put into the House. As in any community, there were those who were content to sit back and bludge while others were trying hard.

An innovation in 1975 was a House tuckshop, invented and run by a tireless group of third years, who did have more vital things to do, such as passing a Junior, but who saw the need for a tuckshop and had the spirit to suggest such a thing. It would never have occurred in previous years.

Anyway, the House responded magnificently to the new system. Excepting the handful of moan-ers, for whom there are no places in a boarding House, anything asked of people was done. The House was complimented on the way it conducted itself during athletic training in third term, which is a great feat considering the hatred of this sport by a large proportion of the House, not to mention the fifth years!

Much as one hates to mention sport in the House Notes, it is sadly the only time the House can perform together against others, except for the House debating competition, brought back this year.

Faulkner House's team, loaded with a bevy of dirty jokes, insults and an urge to entertain, won through to the grand final, only to lose that contest, and if that competition had not been revived, the talents of Tim Stevens would have been left undiscovered!

The second of the areas of the change in 1975 was in the strength of the lower years in the House, which was also mentioned last year. This is very promising for the House in a few years time, and we should improve on the fifth in the Cock House Cup this year.

Alas, the youngsters did not save us in the Interhouse swimming, as we sunk to great depths, finishing just behind seventh. The arrival of the natives from New Guinea, the Liddle brothers, could not quite bring us to the top, although they swam along with Steven Arrow, in our Inters wins.

The cricketers finished a close second after a disappointing loss first-up, and all the other teams tried hard!

Considering Faulkner's low numbers, the contribution to the School teams was large. Faulkner donated many members to the rowing teams, had the captains of both the 1st and 2nd XI cricket teams, as well as Geoffrey Marsh, and in second term provided the vice-captains of hockey and rugby, and a large proportion of both those teams were Faulkner bred.

We continued our great form of the swimming in the athletics, finishing towards last — well actually we were last — despite our squad members. To celebrate the end of athletics training we held a barbecue at the poolside, which proved very popular with everybody except the "moaners" mentioned before.

All in all, the House has responded to the call on them, and has followed the tradition of leading (or drowning) assembly in singing, and setting an example in the turn-out for sport and respect for the School.

Rules take a long time to change at schools, but the first step along the way has been a credit to the House. It has been a pleasure and an honour to have been in Faulkner House and it is to be hoped that future years will be as prosperous as 1975.

HAYNES

To write what is known as House notes was in the past just a sporting review of the years activities and this does not give a true indication of what being a School House really is. This year Haynes reveals the actual nature of this unique House by showing the activities of which we are proud and what we consider constitute Haynes.

Haynes is proud that, as a House, we donated over one hundred and fifty books to the Deaf and Dumb Society and collected for the Cathedral Restoration Fund and the University Camp for Kids.

As a House we fielded teams in every available House sport so that the maximum number of boys could play a game for the House.

Haynes, unlike some Houses who take Wednesday afternoon sport as a fight to the death and to win is the only thing that counts, tried to give our members the opportunity to enjoy their sport and yet still try to win, but "if" we lost then it was "only a game" and emotional post mortems were fortunately not part of Haynes House.

As a House we had a widespread number of boys involved in School sports and also School societies.

Haynes boys were noticeable in the 1st XI, 1st VI, 1st XVIII and XV, as well as swimming, rowing and athletics squads. Furthermore, Haynes were conspicuous in debating, chess and the audio visual club.

We contributed to the School in many ways, not only as a mighty sporting House but also as a House keen to take part and this keenness is shown in the spirit of the House. This spirit is one which sparkles of friendliness and a harmonious relationship exists between the years with respect given both laterally and vertically. When co-operation was asked for it was almost always given, although like all collections of individuals, conflicts did arise — yet they were overcome. Perhaps the only blemish on the House has been the lack of initiative displayed by the fourth years, yet next year Haynes will see an improvement in their attitude as they take responsibility. They will emulate Tony Nutt who became R.S.M. of the Cadet Unit; Dave Vaux and Marty Johnston who fought it out to be Under 17 Athletics Champion — and tied; Buddha Spence hardworking as ingoing Roll Call specialist and front row forward; Andrew Klimaitis easily the youngest boy in the fifth year, and Dux of the School; John Akers as "sparks" on the P.A. set; the other stalwart gentleman of the fifth year, (three of whom have applied to enter the Navy, Army and Airforce), and all leaving to live up to the Hale motto of "Duty" and leadership in the community.

As a House we had personalities with individual characters and a mature outlook on life. This is the sort of success that Haynes considers the highest — the development of a boy's attitudes and total personality to a stage to being a mature responsible young man and the efforts of Mr. Taylor in this facet of Haynes life is much appreciated.

As a House, Haynes can be proud and reflect on 1975, a year where a solid contribution was given to Hale and where individual and House progress appeared synonymous.

LOTON

Although Loton with only sixty-four members in 1975 was the third smallest House numerically, its contribution and achievement was significant. Some notable yahoos that resided in Loton this year were Captain of School, Richie Clapin; School prefects Derek Reid and David James; Captain and Vice-captains of rowing Ernie Goyder and Dave James; and temporarily, School prefect Parry House Captain and Vice-captain of athletics, Rhu Laurenson.

Early in first term the notorious early morning runs and swimming recommenced and resulted in either a House of superbly fit athletes — or class-fuls of sleeping students. The argument still rages over what the result was. Although House notes have been channelled away from sport, mention should be made of some superb gutsy performances to win the rowing, football and cross country and to come second to Stirling by two points in our quest for our first ever Cock House Cup.

But Loton was not solely a House of sportsmen. Being highly cultured farmers (in the Paul Hogan mould), we decided to win the re-inaugural debating technique. By carefully planned chaos and disorder Loton caused a boilover to beat Buntine and then Faulkner in the final. Loton public enemy No. 1, Mr. Macmillan, campaigned vigorously and quite justly about hooliganism in the School for weeks after the Buntine debate.

High class literature (of Cygnet quality) was produced in Loton's monthly paper, the Uncle Bill's Humpy. Our end of year publication the Thorley Muse was enthusiastically and superbly edited by Jamie Cunningham who deserves high praise for his efforts.

Loton men were also active in the development of School resources. A group of third years attempting to utilize Hale's vast bush area established a magnificent underground recreation centre. On discovery by those in authority in the School, it was destroyed and the builders punished. Although this was unfortunate we can see the administrators' view-point. Another social experiment was the Hippy Happening. Organized by Loton attended by Wilson, and gate-crashed by Faulkner, it was a great success — undoubtedly the best social held at Hale for years.

Not only socials, but also social welfare came into Loton's programme for the year. Charity was centered around the Red Shield Appeal where over half the House doorknocked to raise around $850.00 for the Salvation Army. On another occasion a table tennis and pool team journeyed to St. Bartholomews, a church home, to play the residents at darts. The hosts proved far superior on the night.

In order to relieve monotony in boarding house life, numerous barbeques and outings were held. The barbeques were received thankfully by undernourished boarders and helped to create tremendous spirit in Loton. It was this spirit that has enabled Loton to perform so well throughout the year. The House thanks its fifth years, headed by Richie Clapin for their leadership and example. The organization of Mr. Towers, his interest in all members and enthusiasm in Loton has ensured success. The high standard set by Loton this year will be hard to maintain, but we look forward to '76 in the hope and confidence that it will be bettered.

PARRY

1975 for Parry was a year of changing fortunes. During the year, Parry had three different Housemasters and the achievements of the House were very unpredictable.

Despite a rather disruptive year, Rhu Laurenson, and any other willing House Prefects, kept the House in good order through good judgement and countless loud "shutups", even though most of the fifth years seemed to take a liking to the steps by the hall before morning assemblies for most of the year. Although few Parry members appreciate it, we are lucky not to be controlled along military lines, this being mainly due to Mr. Gray's understanding and fair approach to House matters.

Due to Mr. Gray's enthusiasm there was a good total of $30.00 raised in charities for first term.

Swimming was again an average performance with Parry finishing fourth. Our cricket team finished a disappointing seventh with better things to come next year. The tennis team performed to their capacity to come sixth, Placs being captain of the first six. In a tough competition, the House rowers came sixth.

All players enjoyed the weekly team games except perhaps the captains who had to report the results at each Tuesday's Housemeeting. I suppose we lacked what Buntine members might call "House spirit" in coming fifth in the Sholl Cup for team games.

Second term saw the coming of Mr. "Super-organised" Truscott as Housemaster for the term while Mr. Gray was enjoying the sunshine as resident master at Wittenoon. After sorting out numerous hand-out sheets we settled down to longer House meetings and the usual business of weekly 'winter games until the cross-country championships.

Unfortunately, there were no dreams of new tractors waiting at the finishing line for Parry House runners in this year's cross country, and so we gladly let the farmers fight it out for the cup with Parry finishing a good fifth with noteworthy performances by Foulkes, Dye, Rokich and Love.

Not long after the cross country came more hand-out sheets, this time concerning charities. Through the great enthusiasm and organization of Mr. Truscott, the House raised over $100 for the Uni Camp for Kids organization. It truly was a great effort!

This year the senior footballers gained the distinction of dropping from first in the previous year to last this year. The junior football team didn't do much better than their senior counterpart and, not surprisingly, Parry came last in the Devenish Trophy for football. Similar results were obtained by both House hockey teams with Parry coming last in the Brine Cup for hockey. However, success did come the way of the senior rugby players, who came first in the first year of the weekly competition between day Houses. Together with a weaker junior side, Parry came an overall second in rugby. Congratulations to Rhu Laurenson who captained the victorious 1st XV.

For the last three weeks of second term, Mr. Truscott took a group to Wittenoom and we saw yet another new face as Housemaster. We are most grateful to Mr. Foss for taking over for this period.

Parry House thanks most sincerely Mr. Truscott for the great job he did for us during second term and wishes him the very best as the new Housemaster of Wilson next year.

With Mr. Gray back again, third term this year was quite a change from the usual third term wind-down and instead we geared up for the interhouse athletics. Despite the moans every time running was mentioned, at athletics training there were hardly any, if any at all, discreditable performances on the main day, with Parry making a clean sweep of all three cups. This was a fitting conclusion to Parry's year.

RILEY

The emphasis in 1975, as it has been in most other years in Riley, has been on active participation and effort in House activities.

Riley has never been a House to consistently excel in any field. Rather, the accent is on trying, and if having done its best, Riley does not take first prize, it does not become suicidally emotional about it.

This is not to say, however, that Riley never succeeds. Far from it. For instance, in second term, the Junior Hockey team, headed by Richard Sheridan obtained first place. While the senior team, headed by First XI player Peter McQuoid failed only slightly worse and came second.

Even where Riley does not excel, it is often not for the lack of effort. Although Riley's rowing team headed by Mark Lovelady came seventh this year, in future years it should become a force to be reckoned with, consisting mainly of younger House members.

In swimming, led by Riley's captain and sole contribution to School prefectdom, Leigh Jones, we displayed nothing short of consistency and for the fourth year running came third.

In first and second term sport, most boys are able to participate in an activity which they enjoy, and so it is not too difficult to inspire enthusiasm. In third term however, one and all must do athletics and a spirit of co-operative effort is much more difficult to cultivate.

It is here that Jones has made his greatest contribution of the year. Given a free hand by Mr. Poake, he organized House runs and eventually achieved a united House, but not before several repeated runs to convince stragglers of the merits of earnest effort. At the time this report was written, the Inter-House Athletics had not yet taken place, but if Riley does not do well, it will not have been for the lack of its captain's enthusiasm.

But not all Riley's achievements are in sport. It also fielded David Brown and Tim King in the "A" and "B" chess teams respectively. In addition in second term Mirek Generowicz won the $400 Moss Engineering Scholarship, and, together with Ian Watson, worked in Hale's Camera Club, and contributed material to the Cygnet.

David Brown, being an interschool debater, also headed Riley's Debating team of Leigh Jones and Tim King. Unfortunately, Riley's first debate was against the stronger Faulkner side and we narrowly lost the first match. In future years, however, King should form the nucleus of a strong team.

One of the most important House activities, and one which has not yet been mentioned, is that of raising funds for charity. While other Houses embarked on grandiose, concentrated efforts, Riley retained the time honoured method of daily collections in which everyone contributes a few cents.

The point of this system is that instead of boys bringing sums of dollars or so from their parents on one occasion, they give a small amount regularly from their own pocket money, and thus truly participate instead of acting as "middle man" for parents' donations.

Paul Roberts, who also captained the moderately successful cricket team, was the charities' coordinator in Riley for 1975. The small sums built up and by the end of the year, the total will have exceeded $50. The bulk of this will go to Sister Kate's Children's Home and two donations of $5 each will go to the St. George's Cathedral Appeal and the University Camp for Kids.

So, as a participative year draws to a close and the burden of House leadership is transferred gradually to the shoulders of next year's fifth years, Riley offers its thanks to this year's prefects, Leigh Jones and above all to Mr. Poake for his undying enthusiasm and help.

STIRLING

Stirling House opened this year with Graham (George) Johnson as House Captain and School Prefect. Tony Sandover, "B.L.G." Edwards, Kim Rosenthal, Kim Sandover and Bruce Godden proved able House Prefects.

The season opened with a clean sweep of both the G.N. Altorfer and D.F. Poake trophies for swimming. This was followed by wins in the team games trophy and the cricket.

Now, having a handy lead in the Cock House Cup, the winter season saw Stirling House fight out both Junior and Senior finals with Loton House. We won the Juniors but the Seniors went down to a superior side. The Rugby Trophy came our way as both Senior and Junior teams fought out the finals, winning only the Junior. We finished a creditable third in the Senior Hockey thanks to the determination of our Captain, "George" Johnson, but could manage only seventh in the Junior.

Much to the dismay of some masters, Stirling House had only one night a week athletic training and yet Stirling House battled to fifth position, thus securing the Cock House Cup, which for so many years has been out of our reach. How can this be? With Mr. Lupton's emphasis on study, and not so much on sport, the winning of the cup is due to the fact that everybody in Stirling House tried his hardest in every aspect of sport.

This year we see the retirement of a former Stirling Housemaster, Mr. M.F. Loveland. Mr. Loveland was Housemaster of Stirling House from second term in 1970 until the end of 1973. All of Stirling House wishes Mr. Loveland the very best in his retirement.

This year upon the inspiration of Mr. Lupton, Stirling House raised over $100 to train a guide dog for the blind. Every House member contributed equally and generously, replacing the old idea of collecting one cent from each boy each morning, for an indefinite period of time.

Third term was not only a term for sporting achievements, but a term for settling down to Four our cultural activities, we dabbled in chess with S. Ellis, J. Storey, M. Buttsworth and M. Lill as Stirling House representatives.

1975 proved to be a great year in the history of Stirling House — House members working as a team is what made the Cock House cup come our way. I hope that all present and future Stirling House members will continue to give Mr. Lupton their support in his "Study first, sport second" principle.

WILSON

In 1975 Wilson House had to struggle for any success gained on the sports field. In the swimming, Faulkner, in a breathtaking finish snatched from us the wooden spoon and we came seventh. Whoever said that "you don't have to be thick to be a rower, but it helps" was quite correct. The House splashed 500 metres and finished second to Loton House.

Of all our School cup teams, the only one to destroy and demoralise the opposition was our baseball team, brilliantly and sadistically led by B.D. Dickson. They came first in tennis and cricket, Wilson could not even lose the wooden spoons, but in tennis we can look forward to an improvement with the up-and-coming third years, A. Dohle and R. Yong.

With the first term out of our way, the fifty-three or so Wilson House members courageously prepared for second term. The two mile cross-country was the first to go and Ted Hill must be congratulated on coming first in his U/16 race. His effort must have inspired us and we came second to Loton.

Hockey saw Greg Angel captain of the School VXI but our Senior and Junior hockey teams did not respond and they finished low in the final placings.

The senior football was a complete mystery, as Wilson defeated the top sides and lost to the bottom sides to finish fifth. Our junior side was more consistant and they finished seventh. Our only 1st VIII representatives was B.D. West and he earned the reputation of being a very slippery customer on the field.

The muscleless bound rugby team, led by the most outstanding 1st XV player, B. Dickson was beaten to first place in the seven-a side competition by a solid Faulkner House team.

With excuses ranging from broken backs to split kneecaps, Wilson House proved that we are the exponents of the art of missing School athletics training, but this did not stop Paul Riches from slipping in to become the U/16 champion athlete. In the House competition Wilson managed a brilliant eighth place and our reason for not beating Faulkner is yet to be found.

The remaining half of the term was spent with Mr. Wapnah helping us to explore the hidden beauties of Cobb Street whilst we ran to the beach.

This is Mr. Massey's last year as Housemaster of Wilson House. He has been a Housemaster here and at other schools for many years and we thank him for all he has done. He has in every way been an excellent House-master in the Boarding House.

Being a Boarding Housemaster is perhaps, the most demanding appointment in the School. There is more to it than one might think. For instance, there are situations when a Housemaster's presence is essential and a good Housemaster, growing accustomed to these, makes it his duty to be there. However, Mr. Massey also has a remarkable appreciation of when his absence, rather than his presence is more benevolent to all concerned. Last years fifth years also found out that he has an uncanny knack of relieving tension by squatting on the floor and doing a most remarkable Cossack dance.

They say that behind every great man is a woman and casting aside any delusions of grandeur, the same applies to Housemasters. Many a time Mrs. Massey has solved a problem while the 'old man' was busy. She also set the prefect staff in good order by the subtle use of fresh fruit and cream cakes.

AS TIME INFINITELY PASSES

The sun blazed away deep in the universe; great flames leaping from its surface far into space. From one of these massive flares a tiny speck shot far out and slowly began to cool. When it had cooled sufficiently lush green plants began to dot the land; seas formed and many animals appeared. One of these was man.

When the great dinosaurs faded from existence man began to show signs that now he would rule this planet. He hunted animals for food and clothes and later began to produce his own food. Still later he moved into more civilized dwellings such as huts; a far cry from caves and other such drab dosiles.

He was hungry for knowledge, superior knowledge, knowledge that no other such creature could ever imagine in their lifetime. He discovered many things, some magnificent, others terrifying. He dug deep into the ground and found metals. These were refined and made into all types of machines, digging, driving, pounding machines, machines which could store his knowledge.

Although man was the superior being he fought with himself. He then made machines for war, great bombs that could reduce a mountain to nothing, a country to nothing, himself to nothing.

He was sick and evil. He now killed for pleasure not for reason. He tore himself apart and at the same time, tore his planet apart. He planted "A" bombs all over his world and with the flick of a switch, destroyed it. Flames engulfed the planet and all life ceased. Then it slowly began to cool. When it had cooled sufficiently, lush green plants began to dot the land; seas formed and many animals appeared. One of these was man . . .

THE SPEECH

For years the old man had been planning this event. His merciless training, his rigorous life style and indeed, his whole life for the past year had been devoted to preparing for this event, the time for which had now come.

He approached the platform, at first with a slow and hesitant gait, but then once he had remembered the importance of his mission, his stride quickened and attained an aura of dignity. For his mission was one which he felt was too important for him to possibly fail. Once he had mounted the platform he delivered the following speil.

"My friends, I speak to you today on a subject that is of utmost importance to use all, that is the running of this country."

"The present government, by its social and fiscal policies, is wrecking this country, destroying its moral fibre. These two facts are illustrated by the collapse of the economy and the increased prevalence of violent crime and of social un-rest.

"I say to you then, that this government must be destroyed, by any means. The people of this land must unite, now, before it is too late, and in a single blow get rid of this wicked and dangerous government. That, my friends is all I have to say."

After that had been said the old man descended from the platform and slowly disappeared into the crowd, pleased that he had completed what he had set out to do.

And what was the effect of this marvellous speech. Most of the audience were amazed and some were enraged that an old man, dressed in rags and most probably an alcock, could stand up on a seat in the middle of a busy street and babble on a subject that they neither cared about or understood.

THE KILL

She padded lightly along the slope, occasionally sniffing the air. It was unusual to see a lion out hunting in mid day, but she had her reason. Her mate had gone out hunting a week before but had failed to return. Hunger had forced her to leave her cubs and kill her own prey. The path she was travelling on led to a water hole at the foot of the slope, which looked out of place in the dry surroundings. A few low straggly trees were scattered around the water hole, under which lay many animals, large and small. Zebras and giraffes were drinking the cool water, while birds picked insects from their fur. In an isolated area of the water hole were some water birds scratching and pecking amongst the reeds. A few hundred yards from the water hole was a large herd of gerenuks. They were grazing peacefully on the plain grasses.

The lioness was in the tall grass at the foot of the slope. She had left the path to the water hole and was making her way toward the gerenuks. They did not know she was there, or that she was quite close. She moved forward in a half crouch being amazingly quiet for her size.

It was a male gerenuk that saw her first; she was deadly close to him. The buck ceased to chew a mouth full of grass. Fear raced through him. After a few seconds he gained his senses of survival, which was the only thing in his mind. The buck let out a cry of desperation which sent every animal around the water hole in a flight of panic. The buck turned and raced after them, his only intention being to put as much ground between himself and the lioness. Hunger had not slowed the lioness down; she sprang out of the grass after the buck. The gerenuk was a great animal for speed but was he fast enough for this beautiful beast that was out to kill him? The buck had almost caught up with the rest of the fleeing animals when the lioness began lengthening her stride. Her muscular body moved closer to the ground and in time she was on the buck's heels. In sheer desperation for his life the buck darted to one side in hope of fooling the hunter, but it was to no avail, for the lioness was an old hand at hunting and was anticipating his every move.

The lioness turned slightly to counteract the buck's sudden move. Then her massive structure launched itself upwards and sailed through the air like a projectile homing in for the kill.

The gerenuks slender build wasn't enough to withstand the fantastic impact that smashed into his neck. His body was carried through the air with the lioness until the mighty power of the spring had died out and they both collided with the ground, carried along on the rocky surface, until dead and living came to an abrupt halt. The lioness raised herself from the ground to examine her long wanted kill.

SCHOOL

*Life is hard at school,
Work, work, work all day,
while the teachers sit back and get paid.
Maths, English, Technical Drawing.
Must say they do get rather boring,
Recess and lunch are miles too short,
Too much time is spent playing sport.
Exams are full of Hate,
and are usually everyone's Pate.
Marks can be good or bad,
But the truth comes out when you see your Dad.
Reports are the worst
And are usually cursed.
Last day of term is great,
Because it is the start of a long awaited break.
However all good things don't last
And soon the holidays are passed.
Back to the morning runs
Which everyone agrees are a lot of fun.
Although much enjoyment can be gained from

LIFE

*The wave shone,
Shimmered.
Steadily, it curled into itself,
Destroyed itself,
While another took its place
To shine, shimmer, then die.*

"JACKO"

The distant shouts and gaiety of the islands natives floated over the opaque water, the surface of which was lit up by the full faced moon, high in the sky just west of zenith. The schooner, Jacko, rolled rhythmically to the low even swell and the lapping of water against the hull, somehow kept in harmony with the small waves washing up against the shore, some distance away.

A luke warm zephyr breezed in and licked the faces of the occupants on board, some of whom were gazing skyward at the billions of stars lighting up the inky blackness. The last of the party throng had staggered noisily to their berths situated beneath the deck, and all that remained was the remnant of the sober and the somnulance of the atmosphere.

The natives too had had a party and the flickering of a bonfire could be seen amongst the tall coconut palms, silhouetted against the dim background. The crooning timbre of an old guitar strummed upon by an unpracticed hand submerged the occupants on board with sleepiness. The hooting of an owl, which had come to rest on the main yardarms became an imperious sound. However the flutter of feathers and the beating of powerful wings accompanied the departure of the bird, which had more important things to do.

I could feel my eyelids become heavy and eventually I fell asleep. When I opened my eyes, the blackness seemed to have lost its purity, sheerness and depth. It seemed to have retreated before the light. I glanced over towards the hill on the island and rays of light shot out one by one piercing the once inky blackness. The hill now possessed a sharp detailed outline, every rock, tree and shrub could be seen, forming a sharp irregular silhouette. All at once shrill cries, squawks, melodies, and noises heralded the coming of dawn.

THE ACCIDENT

The clock struck 12 in G.G. Macquinen's office. G.G. knew something was going to happen. He knew something was going to happen because it had been two days since his last case, an extraordinary long break in his profession and because if something didn't happen he'd go mad and G.G. would never go mad. Just the same he knew that he wouldn't be able to survive if he stayed much longer in that cramped office, which was filled with the acrid stench of cigarette smoke and the slow, steady tick of the clock. He no longer noticed the old dilapidated chair, the antique phone or the wooden varnished desk. Then the phone rang.

"Hello — Mrs. Brookdale, 49 Brookville Crescent. Yes, Yes, I'll be right over. Give the other details to my secretary." With these words G.G. hung up and sprang out of his chair. Next he seized his equipment, raced down the stairs and jumped into his car. Then, with the same daring speed he roared off in his car, for from the sound of that woman's voice, this case was serious.

Once on the freeway for Brookville Crescent he turned on his two-way radio to hear further details of the case. The news he received did not calm his nerves.

For it seemed that Mrs. Brookdale was so distraught by the accident that after she hung up she collapsed and started crying. Three minutes and thirty-five seconds later (the secretary timed all her calls) the receiver at the other end went dead.

It was then that G.G. realised, if it were at all possible for him to underestimate the urgency of a case, that this case was not only serious it could even be one of almost life and death importance. No longer was G.G. content to just pass cars on the 80 km. speed freeway, instead, slipping his gold-plated 1934 Bentley into top gear, went so fast that the other cars literally swerved out of the way to dodge this self-propelled (by the chaos behind them) missile. Four minutes later he reached 49 Brookville Crescent.

It was noticeable, even from the outside, that something terribly wrong had happened to that house. The garage (an old-fashioned one with hinged doors) was left with its door swinging in the breeze, as though someone had decided to quickly leave once the accident had occurred. The front door, too, was open, perhaps because everyone was too shocked to close it after that person had left, and it beckoned G.G. to enter. G.G. having a nerve of steel, cautiously and slowly did so.

G.G. then walked into the living room and found the usual scene. The mother, crying and the children staring dumbly at their food. All of them were shocked by the accident. Just as importantly the father was absent.

For five minutes G.G. stood there, speechless, waiting to be noticed, but no one did. Finally, G.G. decided that it must be himself who broke this deadly wall of silence, so he asked the absolutely routine question, "What is wrong with your TV then."

SOME OF HALE'S ILLUSTRIOUS CHARACTERS

THE GYPSY

I had had dinner at a friend's house, a manor in the wild fens of Lancashire. It had been a tasty dinner, roast beef and dumplings, served on silver by the butler, Watkins. After dinner we sat down in front of the fire, a glass of port in our hands and talked. Almost inevitably our talk came round to the supernatural. My host then begged our pardon and asked our permission to narrate a personal experience he had had when younger. We all hushed and begged him to start. And then and there in front of the flickering fire and with a tempest raging and howling outside he told us. The following, as far as I can remember is what he said:

Well gentlemen, we all know one another fairly well, having gone to school together, fought together and worked together, but there is one thing about me you do not know. Do you remember, that year I came back to school after the summer holidays, with a white lock in my hair. You must do, you ragged me unmercifully. Well, the story I am about to tell you is how I got that white lock and how my life was saved by a supernatural means.

My mother and father loved each other and were happy together but whenever I was with them my mother would leave the room crying. She drowned when I was just 7 years old. My father was a gruff old soldier, but he loved me and I loved him and respected him. He brought me up by himself; a very difficult feat I can assure you. Anyway life went on like this for almost 9 years, but as I approached the age of 16 I noticed my father grew more and more anxious and I often caught him looking at me wistfully. He also became nervous, and on the night of my birthday, preternaturally so. In fact, he came down with a fever and was consequently in bed when the message arrived of floods at the river. As my father was ill I got ready to go. When I went up to say goodbye to him I noticed he had been weeping. I asked him why, and all he said was "Don't go lad. Don't go!" I told him it was necessary and left. I went with the man down to the levee and sure enough, it was on the verge of breaking. I stood on top of the break and, being Lord of the manor, directed strengthening operations when I happened to look into the river, and saw an apparition of my mother, glowing with a faintly nauseous green light. I noticed with terror that she was coming out of the water alongside me. I say "with terror" because although she was my mother and I had loved her, she was dead, drowned just at that particular spot and buried now. She came up and stood beside me and time seemed to stop still. I tried to move my legs, but I couldn't. She told me that the levee was about to burst and I had to get everyone else safe and get off the levee myself. Then she disappeared, like a snuffed out candle flame. Immediately I called to the workers to get on the high ground as I followed suit. No sooner had I done so, than the bank burst, flooding all the area the men had been working on to a depth of seven feet. I turned, I ran back into the manorhouse to see my father. When he saw me he gave a great sigh of relief and confessed that he had never expected to see me alive again. When I told him of the appearance of my mother his face grew grave and he told me he had some explaining to do. It took him a long time to say it but the gist of it was this: A gypsy woman had approached my mother on the eve of my first birthday and had asked for a lock of my hair. She had pointed to one she wanted and had already started cutting it without my mother's permission. My mother was upset by this and struck her with her riding crop. The gypsy naturally enough cursed my mother and also myself. She told my mother that in 6 years time she would be drowned and that in 15 years time I also would be drowned at the same spot as my mother. My father had then driven her off, but fear had driven a wedge between my mother and I. When my mother died, exactly at the time the gypsy woman told her she would, my father had no hope for me.

After telling me all this he noticed the white lock of hair on my head and blanched. He then told me that that was the exact same lock of hair as the gypsy woman had wanted to take.

That gentlemen, is the end of my story and I hope you are all satisfied by it. It is the only supernatural experience I have ever had and quite probably the last as well.

At the cessation of his voice a hush fell on the room, only dimly lit now by the flickering coals of a once roaring fire. We finished off the port and, in silence, left for our bedrooms. I would never have noted this down except for the fact that the squire drowned recently on the eve of his 51st birthday. Did the canny old gypsy say 15? Or did she say 50?

THE STORM

Dim puffy clouds raced in to obscure the moonlight making a shadow of gloom engulf the land. Trees stopped swaying, leaving foliage to hang limply in the still night.

Rain starts to fall, all the time increasing sleep, blowing as if to resist the boisterous gale.

The rain by now is belching down, forming great cascades of water flushing out all life on the ground.

Forks of lightning, accompanied by booming thunder and through the benighted blackness, illuminating night to seem like day.

Then all of a sudden the pulse of the rain ceased. Trees stopped to gather a breath.

The tempest declined to a gust which died down to a breeze.

The storm was over!

MORNING

Rising at the break of dawn in the crisp morning air to find clean cylindrical waves rolling in.

Donning a cold wetsuit and waxing a board, whilst watching a set slowly move in from the horizon and stand up on the reef.

The lone surfer strokes into the first wave and is sent plummeting down the face.

He leans into a long turn and is sent rocketing high into the speed pocket where he is devoured by the wave's tunnel.

Momentarily the surfer is isolated.

Smooth green water changes to fragmented blue water.

The surfer's ride in the wave's womb is over and he cuts out of the wave.

A TALL STORY

Friends, meet Bob! When he was younger he was the FASTEST MUTT ALIVE! Matter of fact there was a train named after 'im.

This is 'ow it happened . . . Back in '70 Bob and I decided to go hunting in the North West, so we took the east-bound express.

We were sitting down minding our own business when the conductor came along.

"Hey you, no dogs allowed on this train," he said.

"But we're miles from nowhere," I replied.

"I don't care," he said, "Tie him on the end of the train if you want, but he's got to . . ."

"Well that's all right," I interrupted, "E can pull the train if you'd like!"

So, the next time we stopped for water, I tied Bob to the last car, and I stayed out on the observation platform to keep 'im company.

Now that conductor was a mean hombre, and he saw that Bob was having an easy time. As a matter of fact he was keeping up with the train by hopping along — on his hind legs!

This made the conductor mad. So he signalled the engineer to open the throttle HALF WAY!!!

"Let's see that flea bitten mongrel keep up now," he sniggered.

Now old Bob might have a few pet fleas, but to be called a mongrel was a real insult . . . it made his bloodhound, beagle, boxer blood boil. So he just laughed at the conductor and continued hopping along.

When the conductor saw this he signalled for FULL SPEED AHEAD. I will admit Bob had to give up hopping and use all four legs now.

"I'll bet my gold plated ticket puncher, that he can't keep up now," laughed the conductor.

All of a sudden Bob's rope broke! "Ha, what did I tell you," growled the conductor.

For the first time I got a little worried (not about Bob), but about the train. Here's what happened . . .

While Bob was enjoying his run, his dog sense warned him of danger! So he broke the rope and RAN DOWN THE TRACK AHEAD OF THE TRAIN. When he was about two miles ahead, he saw what the trouble was. A slow moving freight train ON THE SAME TRACK.

Bob looked around and saw a switch, he threw it to one side and got the freight train out to a siding, just in time to save the fast express that I was riding in!

A few days later they had a big celebration to honour Bob. Bob was made HONORARY CONDUCTOR!!

And ever since that they've let dogs ride in the baggage car, right behind the engine in case the engineer needs help running the train.

TON-UP!

Then we were away!

He lay across the red tank, head held low, the chrome wheels shinning in the night. You feel so big, so daring; people shout and accuse you of being mad and not considering others on the road.

But you don't care; you stick your two fingers back at them!

The speedometer goes past the 100 going down Box Hill. You roar in and out, weaving your way through the string of traffic. Then you overtake when you know full well a car or truck is approaching the other way. It comes closer, closer, lights flashing to tell you to get in. As a pillion passenger you shut your eyes and pray hard. You feel the bike swerve. When you open your eyes again everything is calm and the roar of the engine speeds on down the hill. When you're on a bike no-one else matters. You are in a world of your own.

UNTITLED

It all began as a pleasant afternoon trip into the hills to set some rabbit traps. I was leading Steve, a visitor to the district, along the many tracks and paths in the Blue Gum Hills. An inexperienced man could quite easily have become lost in the dense undergrowth.

As we walked along we set our traps; there were many rabbit holes in the hills and I had already bought a rifle and rented a small hut on the money I got from them.

Steve was just setting the last trap when I heard a noise behind me. I spun around and raised my gun to my shoulder hoping the noise was a rabbit. It wasn't, it was a large grey wolf, behind it were several others. All looked hungry and underfed.

Suddenly the big wolf leapt at me, its teeth easily seen through drawn back lips. My finger tightened on the trigger and the gun reported loudly. The big dog was killed instantly as the 22 bullet ripped through his head and splattered the pack of dogs with the dog's head. The dog fell to the ground, its heart still pumping blood out of the large hole in the back of its head.

On seeing their leader killed, all hell broke loose among the wolf pack and before I had time to reload my gun, three dogs were upon me.

"Steve, help!" I cried.

Steve had been momentarily frozen with fear, but on my yell he realized the danger, so he bent down and ripped out the trap. Swinging the trap around his head he came to my aid. His first blow smashed on wolf's head open. Just as he was about to deal a second blow, a wolf which had not joined the fight before came up behind him, leapt on to his back and before he had fully realized what had happened he was on the ground, his jugular vein pulsing blood all over the already bloody ground. This new wolf then set about ripping Steve's body to pieces.

There were still two wolves on me. I reached down to my belt, pulled out my knife and drove it up hard into one wolf's gut. It fell off me to the ground, wriggling in the last agonies of life.

While I was thus disposing of the first wolf, the second had ripped its teeth deep into my shoulder, two inches from my neck. It let go and was about to finish me off when I pushed my right hand, which was holding the knife, down into its neck and twisted my wrist.

The dog stopped struggling and fell to the ground dead.

Around me were the dead bodies. Steve and the three dogs were there but I wasn't.

I was alive.

THE MAN FROM MARGARET RIVER

(With apologies to Banjo Patterson)

There was movement at the beachfront, for the word had passed around
That the swell was reaching almost twelve feet high,
So all the tried and noted surfers from beaches near and far
Had gathered at the beachfront overnight.

There was Sandy of the Undertow, come down to try his hand;
No better surfer ever rode a board,
And even old John Williams his hair as white as snow,
As good as all the others, came down to have a go.

And one was there, a youngster with a small and dented board,
It was dinged and hacked about along the rail,
But it looked like it was strong and it looked like it was solid
The sort of board that never seems to fail.

He came from Margaret River, down the south of W.A.
Where the waves are twice as big and twice as rough,
Any surfer that could ride those waves deserved to ride that day,
And though his board was dented it looked like it was tough.

So with wetsuits on they entered, the water frosty cold,
And paddled out to where the big waves broke,
They paddled and they paddled while the waves just rolled and rolled,
It was a battle for them just to stay afloat.

The biggest danger out there was a reef not far from shore,
Where the coral cut like knives if by chance it got a grip,
And few who'd ever felt that would go again for more
Unless they were kind of stupid, or of grog had had a nip.

Sandy rode to skirt it, he was racing by that reef
Where the best and boldest surfers take their place,
And he raced along the shallows where so many had come to grief,
Never was he daunted as the spray flew in his face.

And the only other surfer who could match old Sandy's skill
Was the bloke who lived down south by Margaret River.
But still the waves grew bigger, and bigger even still Till Sandy and the others left, and on the beachfront shivered.

But the man from Margaret River surfed through morning on to noon,
While the others stood and watched him from the shore,
And he surfed on through the evening, he surfed by light of moon,
Till the surfers on the beach cried out for more.

One moment he was in the tube, the next one he was out —
You could see him come a racing through the foam.
But the breeze died down and the waves died down,
And finally he turned his board for home.

Now all throughout the land . . . at least the western coast,
Wherever people try and catch the tide,
Wherever surfies congregate, where they skite and boast,
You can hear the famous story of his ride.

POINTS OF INTEREST

The Assistance of the Rowers on the River Cruise was much Appreciated, especially those who brought their oars.

* * * *

This year's rowing assembly was enlivened by the scripture reading in which Jesus calmed the seas of Gallilee. Unfortunately this was not the case in the Head of the River.

* * *

A first year boarder confronted Dr. Tregonning complaining about sore lips after the first night of boarding.

* * *

Quote from a certain maths master this year: 'pig' plus 'splog' equals . . . . ELEPHANT!!!

* * *

On the 28th of April it was announced that Andrew Taylor (Buntine) was runner-up in the State Lion's Club Youth Quest. The winner was from St. Louis, unusual as it may seem.

Some members of Loton House were able to get Mr. Shields to sign off a 'No Homework'. When Mr. Towers saw this he gave back their diaries which read 'Seen but not believed'.

Who Would Join the Cadets?

There are a few boys in the School now who are too lazy to join the Crops. It is needless to point out that these are the ones who never take any interest in sport of any kind. Our School does not believe in conscription, but it is the duty of every boy in the British Empire to do the best he can for its up-keep, and of those in Australia for that of the Commonwealth. To those few who withhold themselves we all say, 'let them learn to become useful members of society while the opportunity is theirs.' It may be they will never have such a chance presented again, and we all know that those who would rule must learn to be ruled.

Music

Under the guidance of Mr. Harvey, music this year has made bounds ahead. The standard of work has improved and an increase in the size of the band has lead to their promotion from the top balcony to the stage, when playing the hymn of a Monday morning.

In comparison to other schools the band is of a very high standard. The average age is twelve years and other schools with older and experienced players achieve a standard which sits just above Hale School. With more experience in playing, the finer points of tuning within a group situation will come to our musicians and Hale School music will improve even more.

The Junior School Band deserves individual praise. The players have only been playing for a couple of years and yet their adjustment to the band situation has gained them invitations to play for such gatherings as Telethon 1975 and the Alfred Carson Hospital Fete.

Several boys represented Hale School at the State-wide music camp held at M.L.C. in the May holidays. Mr. Harvey was a tutor at the camp and helped encourage the boys, the Hale School musicians being members of two orchestras and a concert band. Mr. Harrison, the clarinet teacher and provider of wood wind players for the band was also a tutor at the camp. The concert given was a huge success.

Also, some ensemble groups have given fine recitals in the Chapel. Such works as brass quintets, trumpet solo's and wood wind trio's were performed. The introduction of colours and symbols for music provides some inspiration for future up and coming musicians.

Photography

Towards the end of 1974 a Photography Club was formed, headed by laboratory technician Mr. E. Jurkiewicz and Mr. R. Pontin. Response was good — too good in fact, as there was only one equipped darkroom and thus limited facilities. By 1975 however, a more reasonable size group of 25 remained.

Halfway through this year the second darkroom was equipped for both developing and printing.

The Photography Club meets on Friday nights when general business is conducted, various aspects of photography are discussed and on some evening slide shows are arranged.

Attendance at club nights is not compulsory and if a member has nothing in particular to do then there is no obligation for him to be present.

During the year, a photography expedition to Walunga Park was organized. The boys all had a good time and some good photographs were produced.

Debating

"To be or not to be, that is the Question". If Shakespeare will forgive me I suggest that this most famous line was written in regard to debating at Hale. The task of maintaining regular teams throughout second term was a trying and arduous feat as boys elected to debate at the start of the week, changed their minds midway and finally debated under an impression that they would make a fool of themselves. The lack of personal confidence was the nature of debating and fourth and third year "conscripts" were difficult to keep. However, the support from the fifth years was encouraging and numerous offers were made by all to help fill a place in a senior team.

The actual debating this year was organized by the W.A. Debating League and Hale entered two senior teams and a junior. The Senior "A" was a team of experienced debaters who established a style that was humorous, enjoyable and which developed audience participation. However, the arena of "formal debating" did not suit Hale's informal and relaxed style. Although the results of two wins, two losses and a draw might suggest that the competition was just an average ride is wrong as debates were lost by taking controversial outlooks on a particular topic that gave the audience an interesting experience but lost the debate. Thus if the Senior "A" had decided to take the formal, standard method of debate the results would have been better but the debating less enjoyable. The Senior "B" gave enthusiastic support to Hale debating and managed to win two debates.

The Junior team was disappointing as due to a combination of inexperience and lack of preparation this side also did not win at all. Besides the League debates, social debates were held against M.L.C. and the unforgettable P.L.C., for those who came to that debate the Strip Tease was quite a highlight.

This year has also seen House debating re-emerge and while this has generated much support the level of debating is appalling and I hope that in the future this competition is marked by a more intelligent and interesting manner.

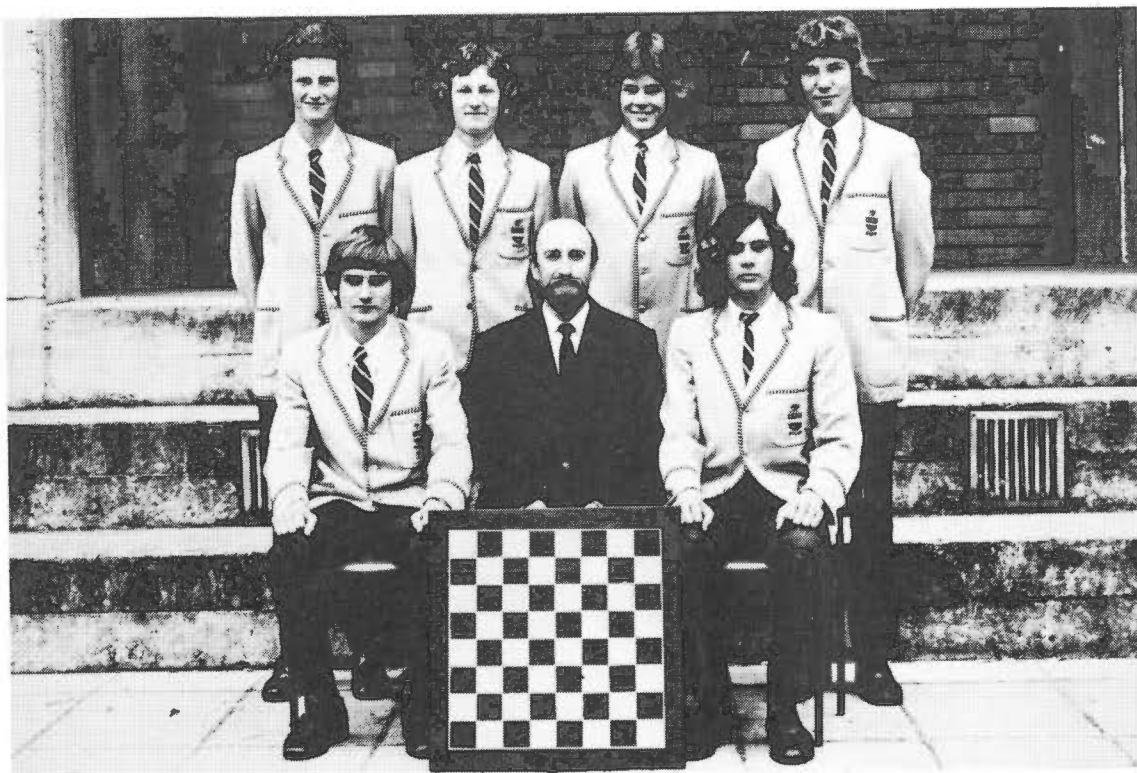

Mr. Coney, Matron and all those who helped throughout the year for Debating have done a job most appreciated by the Debating Society.

Next year Debating can increase its active members, however the drive is needed not only from the fifth years but from a concerted effort right through the School with class debating encouraging pupils to join and debate on an inter-school level.

Chess

The Chess year at Hale commenced with the appointment of Andrew Klimaitis as Captain for 1975. David Brown was then elected Vice-captain. This is the first year that this position has been held.

Because of poor first year participation last year's record number of six teams could not be matched. However, the four teams entered in the competition were more successful than their less experienced 1974 counterparts.

The A team, consisting of A. Klimaitis, D. Brown, M. Lill, R. Quick and S. Buggins, lost only two of their eight matches to finish third in the Premier Division. This position is not a true indication of the team strength, considering a 2-all draw with Hollywood A (the eventual winners) and a 3-1 victory against the runner-up, Christ Church. Only some lapses in concentration resulting in unexpected losses to lower teams prevented Hale from taking out its third premiership in four years.

The B and C teams, in the "Secondary A" League, both seemed certain of places in the finals before a sudden outbreak of mumps caused each to forfeit in the last round and miss out on gratification by  $1\frac{1}{2}$  and 1 points respectively. It should be noted that the B team was undefeated in all the matches it played. Both teams finished third in their divisions.

The D team was also assured of a finals appearance in the Secondary Reserves League before an inexcusable 3-1 loss to the bottom team resulted in disappointment by only  $\frac{1}{2}$  a point.

The success of the younger and relatively inexperienced C and D teams promises a bright future for Chess at Hale.

The Chess Club once more wishes to express its appreciation to the Old Boys for the use of their room as a venue for home matches and as a practice area.

An upsetting aspect of this year was the shortage of playing equipment. Despite an extremely generous allocation of funds to the Club for this purpose, only three new sets were purchased.

John Storey of third year should be congratulated on becoming the State U/15 Chess Champion. S. Ellis, T. King and M. Gould also performed creditably in the same division.

In conclusion, this has been a very good year for Chess at Hale, although a bit more luck could have resulted in sheilds rather than consolations.

CADETS

Cadets this year was again a voluntary activity. With 83 in the unit we were 50% bigger than last year. All the senior cadets that went on the promotion and instructors' courses in January passed (Sgt. Taylor came top of the First Aid Course) and all returned with increased enthusiasm.

After recruits were enlisted they were divided into two platoons; 1 platoon under CUO Rosenthal and Sgt. Cooke and 2 platoons under CUO Edwards and Sgt. Simpson. The Senior Cadet (there was unfortunately only one) went into the Pioneer Section led by Sgt. Gell. Basic training started quickly.

The first bivouac, held at Jarrahdale during the first weekend in April got under way with surprising efficiency. Both the advance party and the main body arrived ahead of time and the issuing of stores was remarkably speedy. Rations did not receive the usual complaints except that 2 Platoon complained that there was not enough. They later discovered that they were living on half rations and that the second day's rations were to be issued later. The two platoons had a common enemy, "The Swan Cong" alias the Pioneer Section. However on Saturday night sentry duty was livened up when 1 Platoon tried to demonstrate the inefficiency of 2 Platoon by infiltrating their lines — the sentries won.

Stores were collected and we returned to school to continue training.

In May, twenty-one cadets went to the Junior Leaders' Course, all passed, and on their return were promoted to Lance Corporals.

Second term saw the unit finally having a shoot when we fired the SLR under very rainy conditions during the second bivouac (this time at Bindoon from 14 — 16 hours). Once again the bivouac started well but rain on the second day put a damper on the activities. However, we soon got used to going on cross-country compass marches and lantern stalks in the rain. On the last day there was a bit of excitement when it was discovered that a good explosion could be obtained by throwing an unused canned vegemite ration into the fire. This unauthorized activity was soon stopped.

Northam camp started with a lot of the workload being placed on the shoulders of RSM Nutt and the other Warrant Officers (due to the initial absence of Lts. Truscott and Greenwell and CUO Edwards and Sgt. Cooke). Whilst the camp was enjoyed by all, the general feeling was that there was a bit too much drill.

Orienteering was one of the main activities as well as shooting, lantern stalking, the confidence course and that notorious game of leisure — "Hut Rugby".

At the end of the camp the news came through that all Cadet Units were to be disbanded. This was received with mixed feelings; some sighed with relief, some cried for joy, but most had a look of sadness in their eyes.

Unit Awards

THE TOBRUK TROPHY

The Tobruk Trophy is an award made annually and is competed for by all other ranks (i.e. ranks other than Cadet Under Officer) of the unit. The winner is judged on his discipline, musketry, minor tactics and general knowledge.

The Trophy was presented to the unit in 1945 by the late Brigadier J.E. Lloyd, the purpose of which was to help remember the cheerful endurance, good fellowship and fighting spirit of all services, 1941.

This year the award is made to WO 1 A.B. Nutt.

THE DRAKE MEMORIAL BATON AND PACE STICK

Both these awards were presented to the unit in 1969 by Old Boys, Staff and friends of Mr. L. Drake. They were inaugurated to provide a reminder of the many years of service which Mr. Drake gave to the Hale School Cadet Unit. Apart from a break for war service, he was O.C. of the Unit from 1932 to 1962. Both the awards are for annual presentation; the Baton to the Regimental Quarter Master Sergeant, the Pace Stick to the Regimental Sergeant Major.

This year the Baton is to be presented to S/Sgt. E. Tarik, the Pace Stick to WO 2 J.E. Mathews.

HALE SCHOOL CADET UNIT – A BRIEF HISTORY

The Hale School Cadet Unit (or Corps as it was then known) was the first to be formed in the State. It came into being in 1908 and was the initial platoon of a voluntary Cadet Company, which consisted of a platoon from Hale, one from Guild-ford and two from the old Christian Brothers' College in the Terrace. The members bought their own uniforms until cadets became compulsory in all High Schools in 1914. The unit was suspended from 1929 to 1932. This was when general Commonwealth compulsory training was suspended.

The unit commenced operations again in 1932 at the same time as Guildford, Scotch and C.B.C. (now Aquinas and Trinity). It is pointed out with pride that all members of the unit from 1932 to 1939, who held any rank (Officer or N.C.O.) also held rank in one of the arms during the war.

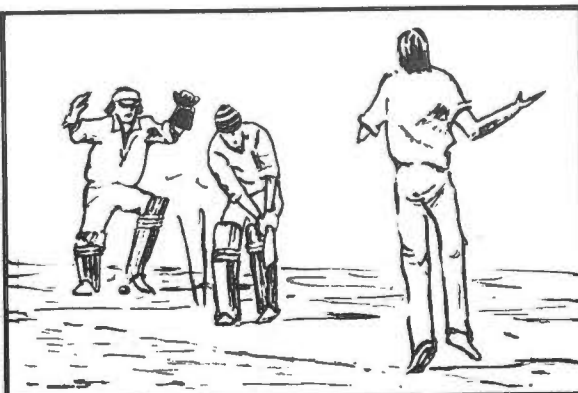

Both Wesley and Aquinas had their first N.C.O.'s trained by our unit when theirs were formed.

The first cadet second lieutenant after 1932, Peter Jacoby, was killed as Captain Jacoby in the Western Desert with the 2/28 Battalion. The present Headmaster was the senior C.U.O. in his year.

The present strength of the unit is three officers, two cadets under officers, and seventy-five cadets.

CRICKET

CRICKET 1st XI

Hale had an excellent season. Following good performances in the third term matches, and a most valuable and successful trip to Adelaide in January, the side finished in second place in the Darlot Cup missing the great prize by the narrowest of margins. The 1st "squad" of twelve players remained unchanged throughout the season, and this continuity no doubt helped the final result.

In batting the side had great depth, and all the players contributed fine innings at times. Mention should be made of Geoff Marsh's two centuries — the 148 not out against Scotch being an individual match winning innings which must rate as one of the finest in Hale's history.

In bowling, the bulk of Darlot Cup wickets were shared by Gepp, Barrymore and Marsh, with Gepp's 8 for 20 against Christ Church the outstanding performance.

The fielding of the side was of high standard at all times, and much credit must go to wicket keeper David Vaux, in the opinion of many judges the best wicket keeper in the competition this year. Also Cugini, McKelvie, Marsh and Taylor were probably the more outstanding of a fine fielding side. Stephen McKelvie was a fine captain, and a great deal of the team's success was due to him. I was disappointed that his own magnificent batting form on tour in Adelaide — where, without him, we should have failed dismally — left him to some extent in Perth. He refuses to let this individual problem upset the tenor of the team and I have nothing but admiration for his personal contribution to our success.

I would like to record my thanks to all the ladies who worked so hard to prepare the teas, to matron and her staff for the match lunches and last, but certainly not least, to Mr. McKenna and his ground staff, for again, as fine a playing surface as any in Australia.

TENNIS

Hale School met with mixed success in inter-school tennis this year, finishing a creditable fifth place in the Corr Cup.

The 1st VI consisted of S. Nicholas, A. Placanica, (Capt.), I. Campbell, R. Clapin, J. Storey, J. Raiter and G. Johnson. M. Spencer also contributed strongly in several rubbers.

Three members of the 1974 team returned but the remaining players lacked the essential temperament and experience and we lost several matches narrowly as a consequence. However, with these younger players now 'blooded', and bearing in mind that practically all of them will be with us for another two years, we should see Hale's Corr Cup team up near the top in 1976 and 1977.

Hale's overall strength this year was reflected in the performances of the under 15 Herbert Edwards Cup sides. Two of them played off in the Grand Finals of Division one and two of the West Australian Lawn Tennis Association Statewide competition.

Our number one side of Scott Nicholas, Alan Placanica, Ian Campbell and Richie Clapin defeated Wesley in the Grand Final of the Mursell Shield. A fine performance and congratulations to them.

The Hale No. 2 Mursell team of G. Johnson (Capt.), R. Gell, J. Raiter and H. Chrystal won the Div. II section of the Shield; also a very creditable performance.

Congratulations to Scott Nicholas on being selected by the West Australian Lawn Tennis Association to attend a coaching clinic in New South Wales over the Christmas break, and from there he will participate in selected tournaments in Queensland and New South Wales.

This experience should prove to be invaluable for the 1976 season.

Addendum:

One of the year's highlights was the match against the State Veterans' Team in third term.

The Veterans probably considered they would have an easy win, even despite the presence of Dean Williams in the School team. But when Ken Rosewall wandered down into the court and lined up with the boys the senior players' faces dropped noticeably.

As a consequence the overall result was a close one with the Veteran's team coming out on top narrowly. Our thanks to them and we would hope to see them playing at Hale on a regular basis in the future.

Thanks too to Mr. Bonner for bringing Ken Rosewall along; it is to be hoped he can arrange visits like this more often.

Squash

Hale again entered three teams in the Junior Squash Pennant Series run by the West Australian Squash Rackets Association — one U/17 team, an U/16 team and an U/13 team. As in 1974, the competition was split into age groups.

The U/13 team of M. Garland (Cpt.), G. Earnshaw, G. Marinko, S. Lill and D. Pipe came fourth in the U/15 competition. The U/16 team of J. Kidner (Cpt.), M. Borlase, M. Kent, S. Torode, G. Wolff, came fifth. The U/17 team of G. Johnson (Cpt.), P. Hearne, G. Guhl, H. Chrystal and D. O'Shannassy also came fifth.

This season the Hale "A" team was faced with the task of beginning to rebuild as at the end of the previous two years Hale had two of the best Junior Squash players in the State.

Although being unable to win anything this year, the interest shown in squash from the younger members of the School is heartening and if this continues Hale seems set to remain a force in squash.

We again extend thanks to Mr. Edgar for his advice and his organization of the teams during the course of the season.

G.C. Johnson receives D.H. Williams Squash Trophy from the donor.

Dean Williams, has donated a trophy to the School and it is to be presented to the boy who shows the greatest interest in the advancement of squash at Hale this year.

The inaugural winner is G.C. Johnson and he is to be congratulated for his fine effort in 1975.

ROWING

The rowing season started with a rowing camp which went over a week. The first eight was coached by Peter Shakespear and John Cardell-Oliver, the second eight by Roger Harrison, the U/16 eight by Denis Durston and the fours by Geoffrey Gray and Lance White.

This year also saw the coming of three new members to the sheds: Mr. Truscott, Mr. Foss and the maintenance man Mr. Don Wright. It also saw the retirement of Mr. Prince as Rowing Master.

The Wesley Regatta was the first race of the season in which we entered. Most crew did well despite the rough and gusty conditions.

The Hale regatta which was on the 5th April, also under rough conditions, was almost a complete success. Other than the course going astray all went smoothly and most crews did well. The Championship pairs was won by Rhu Laurenson and Dave Johnson with Steve Johnson as cox. The final of the House fours was also run off and was won for the second consecutive time by Loton which consisted of four first eight rowers.

Head of the River

The day that all crews and coaches finally waited for came. On April 19th all crews were ready to win. The conditions were very bad and took its toll with some crews. There were some good results attained by some crews. A special mention must go to the second eight for their tremendous win over Scotch and Christ Church.

The Head of the River was started under very rough and gusty conditions. Hale got away to a good start and was leading the other crews out of the start. But the rough water, together with the backwash from the wall and the weight of the crew, Hale sunk at the 500 metre mark, followed by Wesley and Guildford, who also failed to finish the course.

The final result was:

- 1st Aquinas
- 2nd Trinity
- 3rd Christ Church

To end a good season we organised a river cruise aboard the Rottne Islander. The cruise was a complete success and a good time was had by everyone.

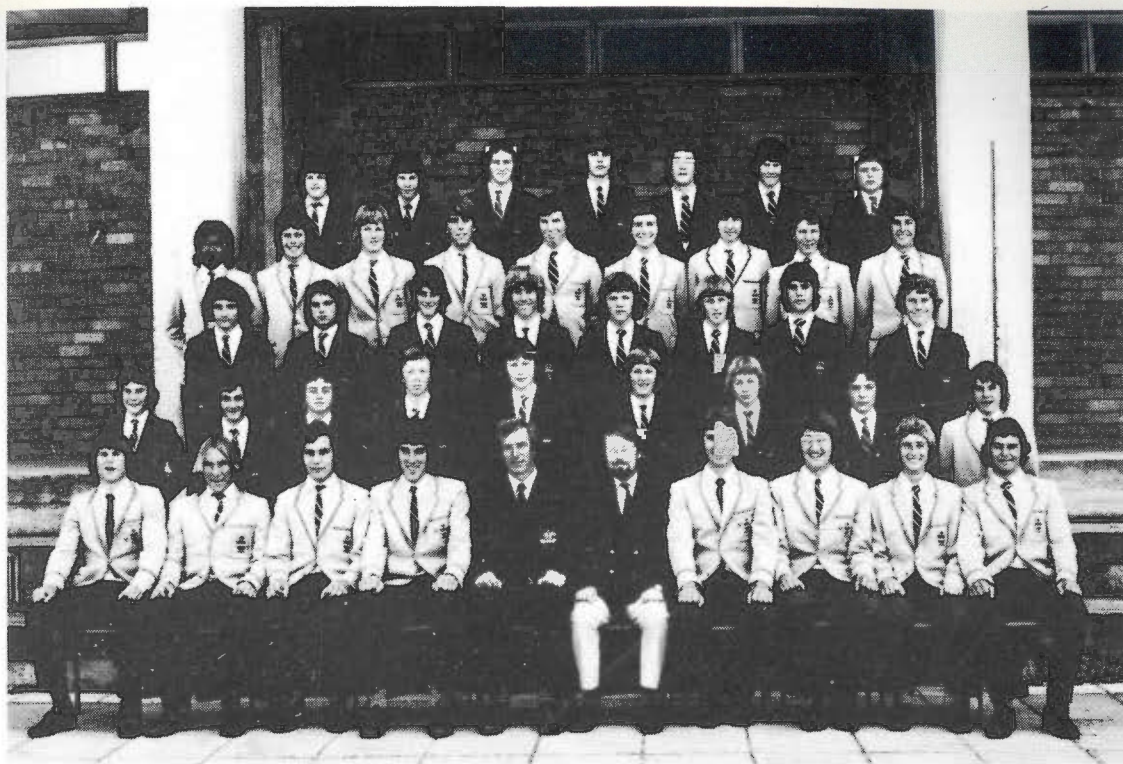

I'd like to thank everybody who helped in rowing this year. Special mention must go to Mr. Truscott, Mr. Foss and Don Wright and also to the mothers and staff members who gave their continuous support throughout the season.

Finally, I must make mention of John Davidson who trained with the first eight and was put into a four for the Head of the River.

SWIMMING

The swimming in 1975 at Hale School entered a new phase. In the previous eight years of Hale School's aquatic dominance the team has had few stars but a great amount of depth. In 1975, however, the team relied heavily on the prowess of Richard Marsh, Danny Rechichi and Neil Brookes. These three outstanding swimmers won a total of eleven out of twelve races. Marsh broke one record, (under 16 butterfly), Rechichi broke two records (under 15 breast stroke and backstroke) and Brookes broke three (under 13 freestyle, backstroke and butterfly).

Official training began on the first day of term under the guidance of Mr. D.F. Poake.

Larry House was appointed captain of swimming and Kim Sandover was appointed vice-captain. This year the swimming seemed to lack the support that has usually been generated from the School as a whole. Unless the attitude toward the swimming makes an about turn, Hale School's lead in swimming will be seriously eroded.

Even though there was considerable lack of support (as was evident by the general lack of spectators at the Saturday morning carnivals) the squad was still confident that they could win the Inters.

The expected competition from Scotch and Aquinas did not eventuate and Hale swam out victors by a margin of 138 points.

Water Polo

Between the years 1971 to 1975 Hale School has held complete dominance in West Australian under age water polo competitions. Under the guidance of Mr. T. Hoad, Hale School has received Australia wide recognition in the field of water polo.

In '71 the team, consisting of Brad Hancock, Kim Sandover, John Birman, John Gregson, Larry House, Rod Sear, Tony Sandover and Phillip Scales entered the U/14 competition and won convincingly. In the 1972-73 season the team won the U/16 title, in the 73/74 season they won the U/16 and U/18 titles, in 74/75 they again won the U/18 title AND are hot favourite for the U/18 in the 75/76 season.

The 1974/75 season was the highlight for the Hale team. In 1975 the Australian Water Polo Championships were held in Perth and the Hale team had six members in the Junior State side, these being Brad Hancock, Rod Sear (both have now left Hale) Kim Sandover, John Birman, Larry House and John Gregson. All of these boys except Brad Hancock, are able to play in the 1976 titles in Sydney where they will defend the National Junior title which they won this year.

Mr. Hoad coached the juniors and on behalf of the team I would like to thank him for all he has done for us and the National Water Polo game in Australia. He should be congratulated on his appointment as coach of the Australian Olympic team.

RUGBY

Hale won the Brother Redmond Cup again in 1975, but only after a very competitive season, two defeats and tight, tense grand final in which we defeated Scotch 7-6.

Most of last year's backline returned to form an experienced, solid combination but we had an entirely new set of forwards who lacked the height, weight and fire of last year's dominating pack.

Scotch had almost the same team as last season with one of the biggest and most talented packs seen in Public School Rugby in W.A., and it was no surprise that they remained undefeated until the grand final.

Against the weaker sides Hale won a good share of possession and ran up some impressive scores by quick handling and close support play, but in early games our lack of size in the forwards was a serious handicap against the stronger sides and our backs failed to function well under pressure.

It is to their credit that our team was able to appreciate what they had to do to beat Aquinas and Scotch in the finals, that they trained hard to become the fittest side in the competition and that they had the courage and determination to win against really worthy opponents.

At the end of the season Hale's pack was able to wear down their opponents, to beat them to the loose ball, match them in set pieces and control the rucks and mauls while the backs were punishing tacklers quick to capitalise on every scoring chance.

The all-round strength of Hale's 1st XV can be seen from the fact that five were selected in the State Schoolboys' side and a further two were in the State Under 16 side.

Those who represented Hale this year were Rhu Laurenson, Captain, Outside-centre. A punishing tackler and an aggressive runner, State Schoolboys' representative. Tim Stevens, Vice Captain and leader of the forwards. A hard working Breakaway who lifted the pack's performance by his example. State Schoolboys' representative. Patrick Lilburne, played as Fullback, Wing and Five-eighth. A most talented player, very difficult to stop. State Schoolboys' representative.

Brett Edwards, Lock. An honest, hardworking forward and a fine line-out jumper. State Schoolboys' representative. Robert Mitchell, Hooker. A tough little forward who in his first season in the position became the hooker for the State Schoolboys'. Only a third year pupil. David Vaux, Five-eighth. Excellent hands, a good tackler, and his powerful kick made him an ideal back. State Under-16 representative.

Peter Liddle, Breakaway. Strong, fast, aggressive and dedicated. Only in third year, he could become one of the best forwards to represent Hale. State Under-16 representative. Brett Dickson, Scrum half. Greatly improved this season and awarded the trophy as our outstanding player.

Kevin Spence, Burly tight-head Prop and an intelligent player in the loose. Our outstanding tight forward and a surprisingly effective tackler. David Liddle, powerful, fast loose-head Prop. Effective in scrums and hard working in general play. Jamie Cunningham, second row. Our biggest player, he always gave of his best and improved every game. Greg Mengler, second row. The youngest player but showed considerable talent and a big heart. Graham Oliver, Breakaway. Only a third year but won his way into the team by his enthusiasm. State Under-16 reserve. Brett Vukelic, reserve Forward. Willing and hard working. A model team man. Matthew Jones, Centre. Very fast but prevented by back trouble from giving his best. David Hall. A fast courageous Winger. Needs only to tidy up his tackling to become an outstanding player. Miles Beaman, Winger. A greatly improved player with considerable speed. Tony Lorian, Winger. A tremendous tackler and ready to accept advice. Made amazing progress in the last few game.

RUGBY FIRST XV

 SECOND ROW: D.R. Liddle, P.M. Liddle, P.G. Lilburne, D.I.R. Hall, R.G. Oliver, R.J. Mitchell, K.A. Spence.
 FRONT ROW: B.D. Dickson, D.J.J. Vaux, R.E.G.B. Laurenson, Rev. R.E. Davis, T.R. Stevens, A.T.M. Taylor.

Andrew Taylor, Full back. Courageous defender and the best goal kicker Hale has had for many years. Kicked 77 points in 9 games — 9 penalties and 25 conversions.

R.E. DAVIS, Coach

The K.S. Jones Cup for Inter-House Sevens was won by Faulkner, defeating Wilson in a fine final.

The game against the Old Boys was not possible because the day selected for Old Boys' games was the day W.A. played Japan and our best Old Boys players and some boys were involved in games at Perry Lakes.

For the first time Rugby was included in Wednesday afternoon House sport and some most enjoyable games were played. Stirling won the Junior and Parry the Senior competitions.

I would like to thank the boys of all ages who have played the difficult man's game so well and the coaches — Messrs. B. Heibner, A.R. Taylor, N.I. Sonntag, G. Lyon, B. Griffiths and R. Pontin who have worked hard to make Hale the top Rugby School.

FOOTBALL

A year of endeavour! The '75 1st VIII can be well pleased with the season. They lacked the quality of the unbeaten '73 group but after losing the first two games fought splendidly well to win five in succession and finish second. They were a team unit, young men of ability and feeling who may well have won the Cup. We congratulate Aquinas on the season and on their high standard final.

The Adelaide Interstate was immaculate. In atrocious conditions Hale was well beaten by the Geelong size and skill, but did defeat Scotch to be second. Much of the ferocity and meanness the team was later to show had its origins in the Adelaide mud and slush. Sandover, Birman, Marsh and Gawned did best and everyone gained from the experience. The group was given a great time by our Scotch hosts and the spirit of these Carnivals is tremendous.

During the 1975 Interstate Cup season, Kim Sandover, at centre was rarely beaten and was the team's best player. The form of John Birman was most times outstanding. Charlie Love was a success at half back, Alan Placanica was always determined and Geoff Marsh, though not consistent, was the most creative forward. The form and fight of Wayne Blackwell on a wing and Ian Campbell at half forward; the toughness of Tony Sandover, Barry West, Alan Rokich and Rick Sutherland, the potential of Craig Williamson, Mark Spencer, Tim Gepp and Marty Johnson; the consistency of Richie Clapin; skill of Marc Cugini, feeling of Derek Reid — they and the others made it a true team.

We are all most grateful to Mr. Placanica for his generous and magnificent end-of-season Dinner for the team. At this Dinner the players remembered and thanked many — ever reliable manager Truscott; Paul Robert, enthusiastic runner and great supporter; our timekeeper Mr. Spencer; Nick Kailis the dynamic goal umpire; the young boundary umpires; Mr. Towers and Mr. Chadwick for help and support; the East Perth Football Club for treating numerous injuries and all our parents, friends, Old Boys, staff and present boys for their cheers and encouragement. They all somehow deserved a better final than we gave them. My special thanks go to the senior players and especially Kim Sandover and John Birman for their football and leadership. The captain Alan Placanica deserves a high tribute. His ability to play, to lead, to encourage and inspire made him one of the fine Hale captains.

It was the fightback season! Once the team settled for its fierce brand of team football, they played well and sometimes irresistibly. Much more competitive training gave the team its tougher meaner approach and the Old Boys, defeated by the School for the first time in years, can testify to the side's tackling. The importance of speed, the skills and reflexes of the game were still emphasised, but this team appreciated the battle and won the difficult games. The players had attitude, they trained with zest, they recovered, and were keen to combine. They felt, ran, demanded, defended, were desperate and were certainly disappointed in the end by their destiny. They were a team of goers and I look back on a fighting and most enjoyable season and thank them all.

MIDDLE ROW: M.F. Spencer, M.P. Johnston, C.I. Williamson, G.R. Marsh, E.R.H. Sutherland, W.A. Blackwell, D.C. Reid, P.A. Roberts (Runner).

FRONT ROW: R.C. Clapin, J. Birman, C.D. Love, A.G. Placanica (Capt.), Mr. A.J. MacMillan, K.E. Sandover (Vice-Capt.), M.A.R. Cugini, A.N. Sandover, B.D. West.

1st XVIII – RESULTS

v GUILDFORD at Guildford, 7th June.

A sad opening! A desperate and creative Guildford outplayed Hale. Placanica was superb at half back, but an unsettled Hale had little method and failed to check opposing forwards.

Score: Guildford 8.9 d. Hale 4.6.

Goals: Birman 2, Spencer, Gepp.

Best: Placanica, Sandover K., Rokich, West, Gepp, Sutherland.

v SCOTCH at Scotch, 14th June.

The poor form continued against Scotch. In a high points scoring game, the team displayed little skill and conviction in losing to the high marking Scotch. After two games Hale was last and could only improve.

Score: Scotch 8.22 d. Hale 5.12.

Goals: Blackwell 3, Birman, Clapin.

Best: West, Payne, Blackwell, Sandover K., Clapin, Cugini.

v WESLEY at Hale, 21st June.

Hale crushed Wesley at home. Well served all over the ground and especially by centre liners Spencer, Sandover and Blackwell, Hale moved the ball at speed and were always in command. Marsh and Cugini led a group of talented forwards.

Score: Hale 18.10 d. Wesley 4.4.

Goals: Cugini, Marsh 4, Rokich, Blackwell, Birman 2; Williamson, Reid, Sutherland, Spencer.

Best: Spencer, Sandover K., Marsh, Blackwell, Cugini, Payne, Birman.

v CHRIST CHURCH at Hale, 28th June.

In an even game Hale won by 17 points. The team controlled play in the first half but had to withstand a Christ Church fightback which took it to the lead in the final quarter. Love, Birman and the Sandovers inspired a spirited Hale revival.

Score: Hale 11.10 d. Christ Church 8.11.

Goals: Birman, Cugini 3, Love, Spencer, Marsh, Clapin, Tuckey.

Best: Love, Birman, Sandover A., Sandover K., Marsh, Williamson.

v TRINITY at Trinity, 12th July.

The Mean Machine! Fresh from the film's effects, Hale produced a magnificent fightback. At half time Trinity who had been faster, more purposeful and physically stronger looked the winners. Then the whole Hale team, with Kim Sandover, Clapin and Cugini outstanding, transformed itself into a combination that simply refused to lose.

Scores: Hale 11.13 d. Trinity 9.13.

Goals: Rokich 3, Cugini, Marsh 2, Spencer, Johnson, Birman, Williamson.

Best: Sandover, K. Clapin, Love, Cugini, Placanica, Rokich.

v AQUINAS at Hale, 26th July.

Previously unbeaten Aquinas were no match for Hale. Team football based on emotion, possession, running, handball and defence gave Hale its best win of the season.

The ferocious tackling of the Captain

The youthful Blackwell was supreme on a wing and lion-hearted displays by Birman, in ruck, and Campbell at half forward, were the highlights of a fine team effort. Score: Hale 9.8 d. Aquinas 5.9.

Goals: Campbell 3, Reid 2, Clapin, Blackwell, Rokich, Johnson.

Best: Blackwell, Birman, Campbell, Love, Sandover K., Placanica, Marsh.

Semi-Final v SCOTCH at Hale, 2nd August.

Somehow the captain Alan Placanica was declared fit. The team responded and outplayed Scotch in the second half with a convincing display of football power. Rokich and Birman controlled ruck, Marsh was the key forward and the team combined brilliantly to enter the final. They had come a long way since that day at Guildford.

Score: Hale 11.11 d. Scotch 5.14.

Goals: Marsh 4; Rokich, Birman 2, Reid, Sandover, Gepp. Best: Birman, Marsh, Rokich, Blackwell, Campbell, Gepp. Final v AQUINAS at Aquinas, 9th August.

The final was disappointing. The loss of the skilful centreman Kim Sandover and Colin Payne in the early minutes did not help, but the Aquinas team played well and deserved victory. Their centre-line dominated, their overall talent on the day was pronounced, they used their ground well and Hale had few winners. The team failed to produce its flow on game and only Birman enhanced his reputation.

Score: Aquinas 10.10 d. Hale 4.4.

Goals: Birman 3, Marsh 1.

Best: Birman, Sutherland, Love, West, Sandover A.

HOCKEY

Inexperience was the mode in the hockey this year with only four players with any 1st XI experience returning. Thus Mr. Biddle, (who took over from Mr. Gray this year), went on a recruiting campaign and came up with another eight players. These twelve players became a tightly knit crew over the season and thus weathered all defeats in liquidating style. Although outwardly it would appear that 1975 was a season of failures, and it was in the fact that we failed to register a win, but the closeness of all games was encouraging and enabled us to tackle each week's game with confidence. The scores indicated this closeness with Hale drawing two and losing by one goal on three occasions. The remaining two games were against the two top teams of which Aquinas was just too good and Christ Church should have been beaten. Hale's defence was one of the best in the P.S.A., having been paid the compliment of being the best "corner" defence played against by Aquinas, but games are won by goals and we just lacked that penetration up front.

Despite the disappointing results it was a pleasure to play in the 1st XI this year because although they were not stars they were triers and united as a team. The man responsible for this unity is our dedicated coach Mr. Biddle, whose frustrating year in both school and IA hockey must have been painful.

I would also like to thank Mr. Greenwell, Mr. Foss and Mr. Gidney for assisting in Mr. Biddle's absence from Hale hockey.

ATHLETICS

Hale's successful winter term of sport, where we won the rugby and second in the football, was going to be hard to match on the athletics track in third term. However, response and attitude was good from the outset and as usual a large number of very keen first year boys joined the squad for the first time.

Weather was generally good, and our two preliminary meets with Marist and Scotch attending our highlight competition, Churchlands and City Beach the following Saturday, both went well with sound performances from most of the track athletes. (Next year it seems almost certain that Hale will join with Scotch and Christ Church in an annual triangular competition).

Hale's team of eighty-four athletes went into Inters day with tremendous spirit and were very ably led by captain C.D. Love and vice-captain R.E.G.B. Laurenson. Once again Aquinas proved to be the powerhouse with Trinity the only other school pressing for top spot. Competition between the remaining five schools was very close with only 30 points separating third and seventh placings just prior to the relays. Hale's final position of fifth was a little disappointing as we had fluctuated between third and fourth for most of the day and with better results in the relays could have finished the day on a happier note.

Stars of the day for Hale were obviously P.J. Campbell and R.S. Blackman, who made a clean sweep of the U/14 sprints divisions I and II respectively, and then combined with P.G. Huxtable and A.M. Plume to take out the U/14 relay. Other successful competitors were hard to find with second division wins going to R.E.G.B. Laurenson (open 400 metres), I.D. Clarke (U/17 shot put), and T.L. Sarinas (U/16 shot put). However a number of good performances were put up by N.M. Henning (open 1500 metres), M.P. Johnston (U/17 800 metres), P.D. Orriss (U/17 metres), G.D. Dye (U/17 metres) and M.H. Beaman (U/17 long jump).

Once again all who participated gave of their best and thanks must go to all concerned with athletics at Hale in 1975.

LAMENT

*We can manage on turf,
 We can manage with leather.
 We could handle the surf -
 In water we're better.*

*But when it comes time to get out on the track,
 Those we meet at the Meet, we meet coming back.*

Captain of School Report, 1974

Once again Hale has excelled in all of its undertakings throughout 1974, and these may be divided into Sporting, Social and Academic achievements.

Firstly, I would like to mention the sports in which Hale participated in 1974.

This is the main area where Hale is represented as a school by a team of combined individuals, the onus being on Hale rather than on the individual.

We had a great start to the 1st term with the Swimming winning their 8th successive carnival, this in itself being a record. The team, coached by Mr. Poake and captained by B. Hancock, performed most creditably on the night.

Cricket: Hale began the season with a comparatively young side and with this in mind they were not favoured to do well. However skill, determination and a enthusiastic captain Andy Clapin saw the team finish in a creditable 5th position.

Tennis: In Tennis we did quite well as a result of hard training under Mr. M. Loveland and Mr. Max Bonner. Hale entered more teams than any other school this year and credit must once again go to these two.

Rowing: The Rowers once again performed well and although the crew featured poorly in the pre Head-of-the-River regattas, and were not favoured to do well on the big day, sustained training and greater application assisted the crew in taking 3rd position in one of the most exciting Head-of-the-River regattas for years.

Hockey: Showed a great improvement on past years performance. The team began the season defeating Wesley for the first time in years. Unfortunately however they lost games through careless errors — and the final position of 5th was not a true indication of their strength. With many members of this team returning in 1975, better results should be achieved.

Football: Football had a less talented side than in previous years, however under the experienced coaching of Mr. MacMillan the team battled on with a fair degree of success. 1974 was Hale's year to host the 10th Interstate Football Carnival, and the school finished 2nd in this carnival to Geelong and 4th in the P.S.A. competition.

Rugby: The First XV had another fine season losing only 1 game in the term. They managed to secure 1st position and with it again won The Brother Redmund Cup. Congratulations must go to them and their coach Rev. Davis.

Athletics put up one of the most exciting and tenacious exhibitions in years. Hale, with a less talented team than in 1973 which finished 5th, began the inters with real enthusiasm and determination which was rewarded by 4th position.

On the academic level Hale has again performed well, undertaking exhibitions and expenditures from almost every department, and the introduction of Hale's own Junior Certificate set us yet another step in front of the other schools.

Wittenoom: A unique set up which involves all of the 4th year students who are given the opportunity to exercise activity and responsibility and receive a closer relationship with staff members thus making Wittenoom a most worthwhile venture. Thanks must go to R.C. Truscott, this year's Wittenoom master for the work which he put into Wittenoom, in order to ensure its success.

Cadets: This year saw a much keener volunteer unit. The Cadets would be one of the most valuable experiences in which a boy could participate as it is here that he has to fend for himself in the bush. The members of the unit indulge in activities which are not normally available to most youths. It is an activity which should be undertaken by all.

Having outlined the School's extra curricular activities I would now like to comment on one aspect of school life which I earnestly believe cannot be emphasised too strongly, and that is "school spirit". Whilst I address this part of my speech to the entire gathering assembled here tonight, I specifically direct these comments to the students of Hale School 1975, for it is their responsibility to ensure that "school spirit" is built up and strengthened. By so doing they will be the richer for their efforts.

Understanding of the true reason for our attendance as students at Hale School, which is not solely for academic reasons, becomes less obscure the more involved we become in the schools activities. Those who do not involve themselves with a true sense of spirit fail in their overall achievement and appreciation of life at Hale.

It is the aim and the role of the Headmaster, Masters, and Prefects to promote within the school, at levels, a greater degree of interest and a feeling of pride for the school, which in turn must be accepted as a personal challenge and continually built up by all students.

The need to lay stress on the aspects of school and self-pride is not applicable to all students. However in an institution so large and diverse as Hale School, we do encounter varying degrees of indifference from certain groups who do not, and will not, respond to the areas of discipline or the need to instill enthusiasm, both of which basically go hand in hand. The attitude of these persons, whilst in the minority, does rub off on others, and unfortunately it leaves its mark, has a most telling effect both on the school, its reputation and on fellow students. I sincerely believe that the real loser, now and in later life, is the student who lacks spirit or who does not recognise the need to be a part of or party to a more involved school life.

It should not be necessary for the Masters and Prefects to have to continuously emphasise the need for "school spirit" or for students to be constantly reminded of this aspect, for one's self-pride should at all times be the influence and guiding factor, as it should also be in relation to discipline and the need to work harmoniously in the interests of ourselves and our school. Building up of true spirit is the sole responsibility of the individual and it should be treated as a matter of prime importance by us all to accept this challenge thereby not leaving the problem as one to be undertaken by the school itself. The honour of being sent to such a great school as Hale by one's parents should be sufficient inducement to instil this pride and sense of duty in all who attend. Every student to help achieve this feeling and atmosphere of school spirit, must acknowledge Hale's school motto and adopt a sense of "duty", which must be uppermost in our minds at all times.

The correct attitude if initially adopted in its right perspective will result in the ultimate satisfaction and feeling of ALL belonging to Hale and this feeling can only be experienced by those who are prepared to give of their utmost in the cause of a more closely knit Hale School. The privilege of being a member of this great school comes only once in our lifetime and then for only such a short period. Hale is held in particularly high regard by the public and rightly deserves its status as W.A.'s top school.

In conclusion I appeal to all students remaining to never let your school down. At all times treat the Masters and the school with the highest respect, and strive for the betterment of Hale whenever and however the opportunity arises — the main beneficiary in the long term will be yourself.

Before closing my speech I would like to extend to Dr. Tregonning, Mr. Hoar, and the rest of the staff, sincere thanks and well wishes from the Fifth Year students of 1974, for what we consider five of the most memorable years of our lives. May I also express my own personal thanks for the privilege of being captain of this magnificent school.

OLD HALIENS

Gentlemen:

It has been my pleasure and privilege to have acted as President of the Old Haleians' Association for the past twelve months.

The Association through the services of many Old Boys has been able to offer a keen careers service to boys leaving School to afford to them professional or commercial advice on the vocation of their particular choice. This service is available only through the Headmaster and School Housemasters.

It was my pleasure to attend various functions connected with School activities, not in the least being the winter sports' day, during July, when the School teams showed their outstanding fitness in subduing a somewhat ailing Old Boys team who could not run the four quarter distance. A most pleasant day was spent on both the football and hockey fields on the day, and the Association thanks the School for their hospitality.

The country dinner was held at Haley Stud and was attended by fifty Old Boys and their wives. Our sincere thanks are extended to Joy and Frank Cooke and the members of the Anglican Guild and Murray Packham and his wife for their great assistance on this occasion.

Old Boys Day was again held on Show Day, (Wednesday), as it will be in the future, and we would like to thank the School for inviting us back to assembly once again.

It was my privilege to address the School and I would like to briefly reiterate my sentiments once again in repeating that we, as present and Old Boys can be extremely proud of our good fortune to be associated with a great tradition, where many third generation boys are now receiving their education at the oldest Public School in Western Australia, and it is wonderful to see that new first year junior school students who have not had family predecessors at the School will be able to enlarge that tradition and become part of a great young way of life at Hale School.

I would take this opportunity of thanking my committee for their assistance and the Headmaster and those at the School for their continued support during the year.

DAVID FOULKES
